

Father Plants Bomb On Plane To Murder Family, Loses Nerve

LOS ANGELES — (AP)—Love for a pretty red-haired airline stewardess was advanced today by police as a motive for the action of a young father who sought to destroy his family by planting a time bomb on an airliner carrying them and 13 other persons.

Police Lt. C. E. Ream said that Miss Betty Sumela of Hermosa Beach told him that she was in love with John Henry Grant, 32, and that at the approximate time yesterday that he placed the bomb on an United Air Lines DC-3, she thought he was appearing in court getting a divorce from his wife.

Promised Marriage

The stewardess, who is not employed by United, told Ream that Grant led her to believe that he would marry her after the divorce. Ream questioned the stewardess after Grant drove her car to the airport. Ream said he was convinced that the stewardess was in no way implicated in the case and that she would be released.

Grant lost his nerve at the last moment and no one was injured. Just as the blue and silver United Airlines DC-3 was about to leave Los Angeles international airport for San Diego yesterday, Grant ran to the ticket counter and screamed:

"Don't let that plane take off! I just put a bag on it full of gasoline!"

Baggage Man Singed

At the same moment a baggage handler loading the plane out on the field dropped a heavy suitcase. It exploded and flames flared up, singeing the man's eyebrows and hair.

The baggage man, Harold Mayer, quickly extinguished the flames and tossed the suitcase out on the ground. He opened it and found an alarm clock wired to ignite a box of matches, which in turn would explode several gallons of gasoline contained in sections of an innertube. Only a small portion of the gasoline was ignited, however, and no one else was injured.

Det. Ned G. Logsdon, who arrested Grant, said the onetime flight attendant told him he was $6,000 in debt. He quoted Grant as saying he planned to collect $25,000 in insurance taken out at the airport on his wife and two children.

Det. R. B. McCreedy said Mrs.

Princess Loses Title, Wedded To Californian

By PHILIP CLARKE

ROME — (AP)—Princess Fati-meh is losing her title and her "royal prerogatives" but 25-year-old Vincent Hillyer says he isn't losing the beautiful half-sister of the Shah of Iran.

"Princess Fati-meh loves me and she's sticking with me," said the blond Californian who married the Persian princess in a civil ceremony at Civitavecchia last week.

The Shah, who disapproved of the match, stripped Fati-meh of her title and her royal prerogatives—courtiers, precedence and the like. Sources in Iran's capital, Tehran, said Fati-meh, being just over 21, probably would keep her prerogatives.

"Princess Fati-meh will not leave me—royal prerogatives or no royal prerogatives," Hillyer said in a telephone interview last night. "We love each other."

Hillyer, son of a prominent Los Angeles, Calif., physician, said he plans to become a Moslem—his wife's religion—but denied what he called a "fantastic" report current in Tehran that he had offered to adopt Iranian citizenship in the hope of appeasing the Shah.

Charles Black, son of the president of Pacific Gas & Electric Co., met Shirley on her recent Hawaii vacation. He was assistant to the president of Hawaiian Pineapple company.

They were together frequently in Honolulu. That aroused rumors of romance. They denied the rumors quickly.

Saturday, Black, 31, flew in from Hawaii to squire Shirley (who'll be 22 Sunday) to the exclusive bachelor's ball.

Photographers and society and gossip columnists filled bay area papers with pictures and rumors.

New Sales Tax Deal Up Today

LANSING — (AP)—Republican legislators hoped today they had clinched an agreement with Governor Williams to accept bills exempting the press and cinema and rental items from the state sales tax.

The House and Senate taxation committees were scheduled to meet with Williams this afternoon to close the deal.

As proposed and reportedly tentatively agreed to by both sides, Williams would permit the legislature to consider two amendments to the sales tax law and the Republican majority would agree not to go beyond the two bills.

One would declare flatly that newspapers and magazines accepted for second class mailing privileges and copyrighted motion pictures were exempt from the sales tax.

The other would lift the sales tax from such rental items as baby diapers, mechanics aprons and tool bags and similar articles. These were declared subject to the sales tax by a recent attorney general's ruling.

Senator George N. Higgins (R-Ferndale) said that there was strong legal doubt whether newspapers and magazines were exempt from the sales tax, although it never has been collected on those items. He said he wanted to make it certain.

Williams also will discuss with the committees the details of "forgiving" more than $1,000,000 in sales taxes applied to package liquor dealers retroactively last December.

St. Mary's River Ice Jam May Be Broken Saturday

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. — (AP)—The St. Mary's river, still frozen over by "blue" ice, may be opened for Great Lakes shipping this weekend.

Capt. Mike Bishop of the State Car ferry St. Marie said today he might try to break a channel through the thick ice Saturday if good weather continues.

The cold weather so far this spring has kept the St. Mary's river and the strategic Sault locks icebound. Their average date of opening is April 16, although it has ranged as late as May 3.

Last week the ice-breaker Mackinac ploughed through the river and opened a narrow channel. Now, however, the channel is again frozen hard enough for a man to walk over.

The Car ferry St. Marie, with which Capt. Bishop hopes to open a channel through the river, is often used at this time of year as an ice-breaker.

Yesterday 13 freighters were reported to have passed the straits.

Congressmen Suffer From Baseballitis; Little Work Today

WASHINGTON — (AP)—Congress has baseball fever today. Without having to invent even one grandmother's funeral, the lawmakers get off from work early to watch the first pitch.

President Truman's—of the 1950 season at Griffith stadium. The House, just back from an 11-day Easter vacation, planned to discuss briefly the huge $29,000,000 appropriation bill and the Senate had the multi-billion dollar foreign aid bill before it.

But both measures involved a lengthy debate—and the game starts at 3 o'clock. Short sessions were expected in both houses.

Billion Dollar Arms Aid Boss, Bruce Resigns

By JOHN SCALI

WASHINGTON — (AP)—James Bruce, director of the billion dollar arms aid program, has submitted his resignation to President Truman.

This became known today, along with his reason: The businessman-diplomat wants to return to private life. At the same time, the President is reported to want Bruce to take on the job of ambassador to Britain when Lewis Douglas quits. Douglas has been American envoy to Britain for the past three years but has been in ill health recently. He returned to his post several months ago at the President's request with the understanding he could quit later this year.

If the 57-year-old Bruce is chosen as Douglas' successor there would be a pair of brothers representing the United States simultaneously at top diplomatic posts in western Europe. David Bruce, James' brother, is American ambassador to France.

The date when his resignation will become effective probably is May 1, it was said. The news of his impending resignation coincided with reports that the first American aid program for Norway under the aid program now are on the high seas aboard an American merchant ship.

The initial cargoes for Denmark, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg should be on the way within a few days.

In addition, more weapons, guns, and tanks for Italy and France—countries which already have received their first American arms shipments—are also reported en route.

Death Ends 19 Years In Lung

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y. — (AP)—Death yesterday took 32-year-old Birdsell Sweet out of the iron lung that kept him breathing during 19 years of polio.

He had lived in an iron lung longer than any other human in medical history. The next longest case was 15 years.

The young man's release came at the end of a slow decline that began last summer and grew more serious two months ago. Doctors called it "complications of long-established polio."

Sweet's father and mother, who spent a good part of their own lives serving their imprisoned son, were with him when he died.

Sweet was stricken with polio when he was 13 years old. While he survived the first attack, he had to stay in the lung or stop breathing. Later he was able to leave it for short intervals, sometimes up to six hours, but always had to return.

He grew up in his strange prison and was as normal a boy as he could be. He became a baseball and football fan. Later he made himself an expert bridge player. Many people wrote to encourage him. One was another polio victim, Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Gov. Williams Accepts Burke Resignation In Civil Service Office

LANSING — (AP)—Governor Williams agreed today to accept the resignation of George Burke, sr., of Ann Arbor, from the state civil service commission, and said he had no successor in mind.

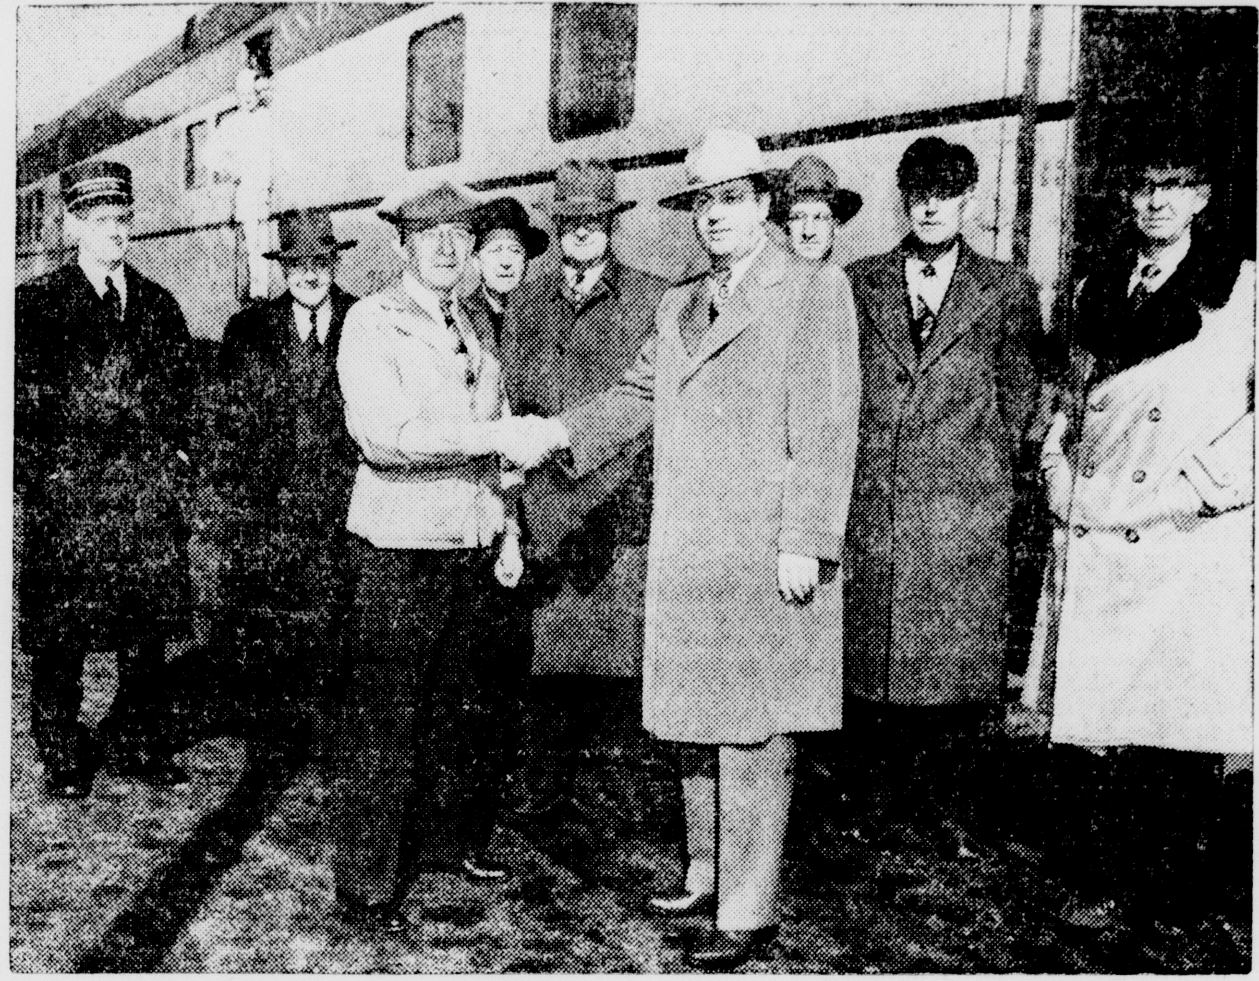

Williams said he accepted Burke's resignation with "sympathetic understanding because when Mr. Burke accepted reappointment he indicated he might not be able to serve his full term."

Williams hailed Burke's "loyalty" to the commission since its inception and his "competent ability."

Burke resigned yesterday in protest against what he said was criticism of the commission's stand on forcing the retention of Gen. Louis A. Kunzig as business manager of the liquor control commission over the objections of the Democratic majority of the liquor commission.

Noses Sliced Off

BOMBAY, India — (AP)—Visa Manjaria, ringleader of the murderous gang reputed to have sliced off the noses of 200 Hindus, was shot dead today, police announced. Manjaria and a band of Daocits (a class of robbers and murderers) were ambushed by a special police party. The band is credited with the murder of at least 20 persons.

Tornadic Winds Hit At Mobile

MOBILE, Ala. — (AP)—Winds of tornadic force struck in at least three suburban areas of Mobile early today, causing injuries to an undetermined number of persons.

Highway patrol and county officers hurried into the areas and reported that "considerable damage" had been done in a wide section about 10 miles northwest of Mobile.

Several ambulances were called to Whistler, Ala., but only two persons were known to have been injured there, neither seriously.

Highway patrol headquarters in Mobile reported that a section known as Saraland had been struck by heavy wind but an hour later no one had been reported hurt. Several houses were reported blown down, but this could not be confirmed at once.

A gas main break near Pritchard, Ala., caused a hazard to traffic and low pressure in industrial plants.

Pritchard police reported a large frame house had blown down and that a man was found 150 yards away in a field. The man was only slightly hurt. A woman, presumably his wife, and a baby were found near the ruins, but were not believed to have been injured.

Reporters and photographers were having difficulty getting to the scene because of fallen timber and power lines. Telephone communications were broken throughout the immediate areas.

Outlook Dim For Cut In Excise Levies

By FRANCIS M. LE MAY

WASHINGTON — (AP)—The outlook for a $1,000,000,000 slash in excise levies—or any reduction at all this year—looked dim today.

The tax bill being whipped up in Congress may run into a presidential veto.

Chairman Doughton (D-NC) of the tax-framing house ways and means committee told newsmen "the prospects are not bright" that the committee can produce a bill reducing levies—on such things as furs, jewelry, luggage, toilet articles, transportation and communications—and at the same time make up the revenue loss by larger collections elsewhere.

In a special message to Congress January 23, Mr. Truman called for a cut in levies, but he said he couldn't approve such cuts "unless they were accompanied by provision for replacement of the revenue lost."

The tax legislation managers on Capitol Hill have not given up hope of coming within the specifications the President laid down, if a veto is to be avoided.

But some say they hope Mr. Truman will sign the bill, if it falls only a few million short of finding other tax sources to cover up the excise cut.

Thousands Homeless In Dakota Floods

BISMARCK, N. D. — Thousands of persons in North Dakota and western Minnesota were made homeless today by raging flood waters.

Overflows from scores of rivers, creeks and ditches spilled over lands in the disaster areas.

The American Red Cross, declaring an emergency as it estimated 1,280 families were homeless, set up relief centers in four cities.

Robert Brumett, Red Cross state relations director, said scores of communities were isolated without power, light or telephones. The rampaging waters, not yet at their peak, swept away whole lines of light and telephone poles.

Railroad and highway traffic was halted over large sections by washouts. Brumett said unnumbered bridges were swept away to add to the isolation.

Jamestown, N. D., a city of some 10,000, evacuated 400 families in the worst flood in that city's history. Refugees included 70 residents at the Crippled Children's school. The Pipestem river, normally a stream a man could jump across, surged from its banks to flood the entire western section of the city. The crest was not expected until some time tomorrow.

Bruce Johnson, Bureau of Reclamation director for North Dakota, said after an aerial survey: "I never saw so much water. I was startled."

Adding to the woe was today's forecast of rain, possibly changing to snow. Johnson said he felt certain "the worst is yet to come."

"With water pouring almost everywhere, there is still a lot of ice and snow to melt," Johnson said. "Sudden high temperatures could create real havoc."

North Dakota had a blizzard the weekend of April 8. The state highway department reported that many federal and state roads still are snow-blocked.

Travel in the central-western and northern parts of the state was termed "extremely dangerous."

Game Law Bill Set In Lansing

LANSING — (AP)—A bill which its sponsor declared would go a long way to plug loopholes in the authority of state conservation officers was ready to be introduced in the Senate today.

It is sponsored by Senator John B. Martin, jr. (R-Grand Rapids) after consultation with the attorney general and officers of the united conservation clubs.

The bill would give conservation officers all the powers of peace officers, directly overriding one recent state supreme court opinion and by indirectness, Martin said, at least partially overriding another adverse court opinion.

"The way I interpret it," Martin said, "a conservation officer coming upon a man in a hunting or fishing area and obviously hunting or fishing would have the right to make certain that the man was not violating the law, the same as a policeman finding a person under certain circumstances has a right to call him to account even though there is no evidence of anything wrong."

Martin said, however, that his bill would not allow conservation officers to blockade highways or stop cars just to see if the occupants were law-abiding.

Brother Acquitted Of Family Slaying In Four Minutes

MAYNARDVILLE, Tenn. — (AP)—A circuit court jury took only four minutes yesterday to acquit 33-year-old Carl Graves of the murder of his brother.

But Judge George Shepherd fined Carl $50 and sentenced him to 30 days in jail for carrying a pistol.

Commented Judge Shepherd: "This killing won't stop as long as people carry pistols around."

Earl Graves, 43, was shot March 5 at the home of another Graves brother—Clifford. And it was Sheriff Leslie Graves who arrested his brother Carl and placed him in jail.

The sheriff called it "a family affair."

Protest By Moscow Just Propaganda

WASHINGTON — (AP)—The United States charged today that Russian fighters shot down the missing American navy patrol plane over open waters of the Baltic Sea.

It demanded that Russia punish those responsible and pay appropriate indemnity for the lives of the ten men lost in the plane.

Kirk Delivers Reply

The charge and the demand were made in a formal reply to Russia's protest of April 11 that an American plane had flown over Latvia and exchanged gunfire with Soviet aircraft on April 8.

The American note, delivered in Moscow by Ambassador Alan G. Kirk, demanded also that "the most strict and categorical instructions" be issued to the Soviet air force to prevent any new incident "so clearly calculated to magnify the difficulties of maintaining peaceful and correct international relationship."

The note flatly rejected Russia's claim that the American plane flew over Russian territory in violation of international law.

Patrol Craft Unarmed

It charged the Soviets with a "violation of international law and of the most elementary rules of peaceful conduct between nations."

The 600-word counterprotest said the American investigation determined that the U. S. plane involved was the navy four-engine Privateer patrol craft which has been missing in the Baltic area since April 8.

All American aircraft operate under strict instructions to fly over any foreign territory except with express permission.

Iron Mountain Couple Settles Suit Against Los Angeles Hospital

LOS ANGELES, Calif. — (AP)—Attorneys say that an out-of-court settlement for an undisclosed amount will be made to Mr. and Mrs. Clifford D. Henderson of Iron Mountain, Mich.

The Hendersons were suing Santa Monica hospital and two doctors for $171,617. They charged negligence, claiming that a towel, a metal ring and some tape were left in Mrs. Henderson after an abdominal operation June 21, 1943.

The case was to have gone to trial here Monday. The operation occurred while Mrs. Henderson was a wartime worker at an aircraft plant.

The objects, Mrs. Henderson said, were found when another operation was performed on her in Minnesota in September of 1948. She said she had been continually ill after the first operation.

Fire Proposal Favored In Vote

Bark River Will Get Equipment

Bark River electors voted overwhelmingly in a special election Monday in favor of a proposal to raise the township tax rate to provide funds for purchase of new fire equipment.

A total vote of 303 was cast, with 77 per cent in favor of the proposal. Only 67 negative votes were cast.

In the first precinct, at Bark River, 183 voters favored the proposal and 41 voted no. At Schaffer, in the second precinct, 51 favorable votes and 26 negative votes were cast.

A meeting of the township board will be held at 1 p. m., Wednesday, April 19, to review plans, draw specifications and discuss types of equipment available.

Under the terms of the proposal voted Monday, the township tax rate will be increased three mills for five years or less, to provide $13,500 for purchasing and housing new fire equipment.

U. P. Optometrists Meet Here With State Officers

Twenty Upper Peninsula optometrists met in Escanaba this weekend for a conference with Dr. E. L. Eichhorn of Bay City, president of the Michigan Optometric association, Dr. Dan Fast of Marquette, president of the Wisconsin association, and Dr. Augustus Abbott of Shawano, president of the Wisconsin Board of Examiners.

Doctor Fast described efforts by the Wisconsin Optometric association to improve optometric public relations and service to the public and Doctor Abbott outlined details of the Wisconsin public relations program.

Legislative and educational questions confronting optometrists in Michigan were discussed Saturday by Doctor Eichhorn, following Doctor Fast's talk.

Upper Peninsula problems were discussed at the meeting Sunday. A committee was appointed to arrange a safety program on motorist visual problems with a display at the U. P. State Fair in August. Dr. Neal Bailey of Escanaba was appointed chairman of this committee and will be assisted by Dr. W. J. Norris of Marquette and Dr. Clarence Novak of Manistique.

Attending the conference were Dr. Herbert Dickson of Munising, Dr. Edna Remillard of Calumet, Dr. Aurel Roy of Hancock, Dr. Clarence Novak of Manistique, Dr. W. J. Norris of Marquette, Dr. H. A. School-Road Tax Rate Hearing Is Scheduled May 1

The Delta county tax allocation commission met yesterday to organize for the year and elected Helmer J. Skogquist of Gladstone as its chairman.

Following discussion of the Delta county board of supervisors recent recommendation that 2 mills of local tax be allocated to the county road commission for county road purposes, the commission set May 1 for a further hearing of the problem.

At that time the allocation commission will meet with representatives of the road commission and the schools to discuss the recommendation of the board of supervisors.

Informally the supervisors understood that the 2 mills for county roads would reduce the millage for the schools by that amount. Last year the county received 8 mills and the school 7.

The 2 mills recommended for roads by the supervisors would bring the road commission about $54,000, which could be matched by federal funds for improvement of the primary county road system.

Comprising the allocation commission are Chairman Skogquist, C. Gust Peterson and Hagle Quarnstrom, representing the schools; C. W. Stoll and Robert Pryall, representing the county; and Nevin Reynolds, representing the city of Escanaba. Skogquist is not officially connected with any governmental unit.

Also attending yesterday's meeting were Harold Gustafson, Ensign, county board of supervisors' chairman, and Prosecutor J. Clyde McGonagle.

Two Boats Set For Escanaba

Expected To Arrive Here Tomorrow

Two ore carriers, the Strs. William H. Wolf and Sullivan Brothers, were scheduled to clear today from South Chicago and to arrive in Escanaba on Tuesday to open the 1950 shipping season here.

Lee McMillan, Chicago & North Western dock agent, pointed out that adverse ice conditions on northern Green bay has made it necessary for the Lake Carriers association to revise the schedule several times this spring.

The C & N W docks here have been prepared to begin loadings for the past week, but ice conditions have delayed boat movements.

Following the Wolf and Sullivan Brothers will be the following boats, according to the schedule of arrivals announced today:

April 20—Str. Hennepin.
April 25—Strs. Peter White and Angeline.

April 26—Str. Presque Isle.

Last year the first ore carrier arrived here on March 23.

The Coast Guard cutter Sundew cleared from Escanaba yesterday and has not returned. It is presumed the cutter will escort the Strs. Wolf and Sullivan Brothers through northern Lake Michigan ice into the docks at Escanaba tomorrow.

The Minneapolis Shoal light-house, principal navigation guide for Green bay waters, will have its light in operation today. The radio beacon was operating yesterday.

Kite Tournament Slated Saturday

A city-wide kite tournament, open to every boy and girl in Escanaba, will be held Saturday morning, George Grenholm, recreation director, announced today. The tournament was postponed last Saturday because of weather conditions.

Youngsters are asked to meet at 10 a. m., in the field near the intersection of South 14th street and South 15th avenue. Prizes will be awarded.

Youths Reaching 18 Still Must Register

Youths reaching the age of 18 years are still required to register for selective service, even though the draft board is not calling men for military induction, it has been emphasized by the selective service organization.

Registrations are accepted every Monday at 606 S. 15th street. The draft board clerk is Mary Wagner.

Ford River Ice Jam Dynamited

Water Reported Four Feet Above Normal

Blasts of dynamite were used by Delta county road commission crews to break ice jams at the mouth of Ford River and prevent flooding by water that is already four feet above normal level.

William Karas, road commission superintendent-engineer said the jam at the mouth of the river was one of the worst in many years. About 12 years ago the river coursed out of bounds and broke through a section of concrete highway south of the bridge on M-35.

Dynamiting was expected to clear the river channels leading into Green Bay and halt the threat of the Ford River mills community being flooded, Karas said.

The blasts were set off by crews working under the direction of Algot Gustafson. The bay ice is still solid at the river outlet, and ice swept down by the current lodges there, building a jam that holds back the water.

Other ice jams have developed in constricted sections of the river as far up as Newhall, it was reported. There, where Ten Mile Creek empties into the river, a wing wall on the south abutment of the bridge was tumbled in by the flooding water and the steel stringers underneath the bridge were damaged by ice.

At the "old bridge" in Ford River mills the water raised to within three feet of the bridge floor before dynamiting relieved the pressure. The blasts were so planned at the river mouth to open several channels for the water to flow through into the bay.

William Rowley, 84, Retired Cruiser, Dies This Morning

William Rowley, 84, widely known retired timber cruiser, died at 5:30 this morning at the family home, 1520 Washington avenue. He had been in fair health and his death was unexpected.

He was born in Brighton, Ontario, Canada, May 1, 1865 and when he was 16 years old went to Saginaw to take employment with the Pere Marquette Railway. Eight years later he came to Escanaba and until his retirement in 1930 he was a timber cruiser, buying and selling lands for the I. Stephenson company.

He is survived by two daughters, Miss Abigail Rowley and Mrs. Frank Shepek, Escanaba; and two sons, William R. Rowley, jr., Escanaba, and Warren, Detroit; eight grandchildren and two great grandchildren; one sister, Mrs. George Arthur of Winnipeg, Manitoba, Canada; and two brothers, Frank Rowley of Winnipeg and Hiram of Vancouver, B. C.

Arrangements for the services will be completed Wednesday. The Boyce funeral home is in charge.

Recovery Made In Scandinavia

Heideman Tells Of Gains Since War

The Scandinavian countries, particularly Norway and Finland, have made a remarkable economic recovery since the end of World War II, Dr. Burt Heideman, professor of history and political science at the University of Michigan, told the extension lecture group at the junior high school last night.

"Norway has rebuilt after the devastation caused during the Nazi occupation," said Heideman. "Finland, despite the 300 million reparations imposed by Soviet Russia has come through with flying colors."

Finns Expand Industry
Since Sweden was neutral during World War II that Scandinavian country suffered little, Heideman pointed out. Denmark is rebuilding its agriculture and is again developing its industrial resources.

The reparations imposed by Soviet Russia forced Finland to expand its factories to produce machinery and equipment for that conquering nation. As a result, Finland now has manufacturing facilities on a more extensive scale than before the war. Its shipbuilding industry also has greatly expanded, Heideman said the Finns are now "over, the hump in their reparation payments."

Finland is now the largest exporter of plywood, Heideman said. Finland and the other northern countries also produce and export large amounts of wood pulp and paper.

Cooperatives Important
Cooperatives hold a very important role in the retail, wholesale and agricultural fields in the northern countries, Dr. Heideman said. They are regarded as private enterprise, and no different than corporate business with its stockholders.

Private ownership of property and industry remains dominant in the northern countries, the only notable exception being the government-owned railways, the speaker continued. He said the people of Scandinavia strive to follow the "middle way" in economics and politics, as being most compatible with the spirit of democracy.

"They would raise their eyebrows at the socialism of England or France," Dr. Heideman said. "The Northerners have a distaste for extremists, whether of the right or the left."

Cancer Detected In Blood Tests

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Reporter
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—(AP)—A new blood test is 98.6 per cent accurate in detecting the presence of cancer, four researchers have reported.

The test is one of a half dozen new ones, all based on finding that cancer does something to human blood.

The hope is that this test, or one of the others, will help solve one of the most serious problems in human cancer. This problem is finding the people with cancer early enough to cure them by surgery or x-rays, the two standard cures now.

The new test was described to the American Association for Cancer Research by a team of four scientists from the University of California at Los Angeles and the Veterans Administration hospital in Los Angeles. They are Drs. H. S. Penn, George C. Hall, A. H. Dowdy and A. W. Bellamy.

The test mixes human blood serum with an extract from the livers of people who had cancer. The test indicates cancer if solid particles form and the cloudy solution becomes clear.

It was tested on 4,500 people. It was known that 830 of them had previous cancer. The test said "yes" on 98.6 per cent of them.

In this group, nearly 1,000 persons apparently were healthy.

False Alarm Flurry Results In Warning

GLADSTONE — A flurry of false alarms that last night sent the fire department out on six calls within a one-hour period, today brought a warning from City Manager H. J. Hendrickson.

Each fire call costs money and there is always the danger of injury or death on the fast runs made by the firemen in response to the call, Hendrickson said.

He also pointed out that the city ordinance provides for fine and jail for persons convicted of molesting city property—such as a fire alarm box. Persons giving information leading to the arrest and conviction of those who turn in false alarms will receive a $25 reward.

Rural Phones Are Discussed

Officials Of Bell And Co-op Confer

A meeting of representatives of Michigan Bell Telephone company and the Rural Communications cooperative was held recently at the offices of the Alger-Delta Cooperative Electric association in Gladstone, John B. Whitmore of Gladstone announced.

The meeting was held to discuss terms and details relative to the connecting of the telephone lines of Michigan Bell Telephone company and those of the Rural Communications cooperative.

The joint use of automatic switching equipment was also considered because this type of rural service may be necessary for reasons of economy. The discussions were restricted to hypothetical areas because at the present time the cooperative is not prepared to begin the planning of any certain areas.

It was mentioned by the Michigan Bell Telephone company representatives that all members of the cooperative who will be connected to a Bell Telephone company exchange will receive the same service and toll rates that the regular Bell subscribers enjoy.

Rural residents will be charged no more for long distance calls than city residents so long as they are connected to the same exchange. In some instances it may be necessary for the cooperative to install its own exchange. In such a case the cooperative will attempt to render telephone service toll-free to the subscribers' center of commerce.

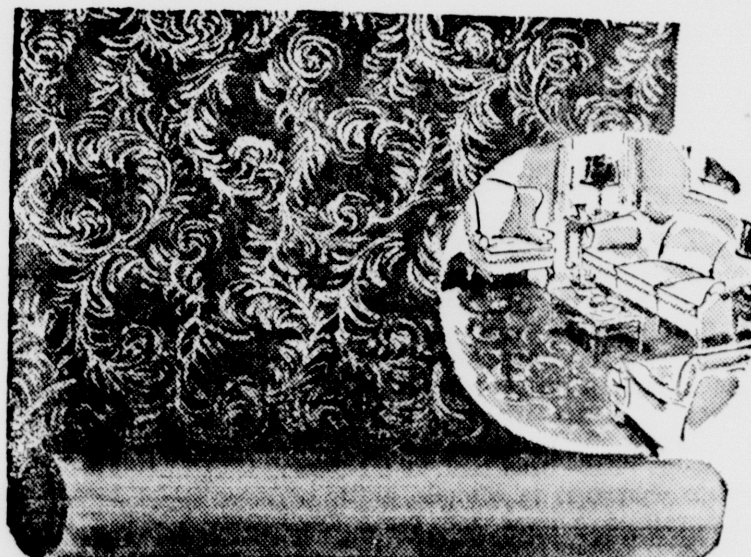

Some areas are expected to be served by small automatic exchanges while others will be connected to the facilities of existing systems.

The cooperative expects to begin construction of its lines as soon as sufficient funds and information are available.

Proposal To Outlaw Communist Party Gaining Many Adherents

THE recommendation by an American Legion anti-Communist conference that Governor Williams present to the legislature in special session a proposal to outlaw the Communist party in Michigan brings to the fore an approach to the Communist problem that has gained much impetus since the conviction of Communist party leaders in the New York trial.

The Communist leaders were not charged directly with being criminals because they were Communists. There is no law against Communists as such in this country. They were charged with advocating the overthrow by violence of the United States government, which happens to be a prime tenet of Communism.

The Legion proposal would eliminate any distinction between Communist party membership and advocating the violent overthrow of government as unlawful acts. In truth, there is very little distinction in law now, particularly as a result of the New York trial.

Many people have argued against outlawing the Communist party on grounds that such action would serve only to drive the Communists underground and make it more difficult to follow their nefarious activities. This premise hardly is a logical one, however, because the dirtiest work of the Communists is done under cover even now. The dangerous Communists are already underground.

Others argue that the outlawing of the Communist party would in itself be unconstitutional because our American constitution protects the rights of individuals to profess any political belief that they desire.

The Communist party, however, is not a political party in the American meaning of the term. It is an agency devoted to the objectives of a foreign government. As such, it is a spy organization to the same degree as the Soviet secret police. The right of an individual to serve as a spy in this country for a foreign power certainly is not protected by the American constitution.

President Vetoes Kerr Gas Bill

PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S veto of the Kerr gas bill killed for this session at least efforts to remove natural gas rates from the regulatory authority of the Federal Power commission. If the bill had become law, natural gas prices would have been increased by producers by a total of an estimated $200 to $300 millions per year.

The president was subjected to considerable pressure to sign the bill but even more pressure to veto it.

The contention of proponents that the enactment of the Kerr bill would not result in higher rates to consumers apparently was rejected by the president. The rates to consumers are regulated by state authorities, not the federal government, but it is apparent that the cost of gas at the producing sites must be reflected in charges made by pipeline owners. Thus, increased gas costs inevitably would be passed on to the consumers.

Inasmuch as the Kerr bill passed the two houses of congress by extremely narrow margins, it is unlikely that there will be sufficient support to override the presidential veto.

Because natural gas is not at present piped into the Upper Peninsula, the bill would have had no direct effect upon people of this region, even if it had been signed by the president. It would have indirect effect, however, because of the competitive factor of natural gas upon other fuels at the national level. Also, it would have a long range effect in view of plans to push natural gas pipelines into the Upper Peninsula in the near future.

Z-Z-Z-Z-ZIP!

(Christian Science Monitor)

Others have had trouble making a zipper bag close over more things than it was designed to hold; but few have had such an attentive audience as President Truman on his departure from Key West.

Deciding to put two more books in his brief case before boarding the plane at the Boca Chica naval airfield, he found this was almost too much for the zipper. Rows of naval officers and men stood stiffly at attention while Mr. Truman squeezed the zipper tracks together and his valet tugged at the tab.

The president was more successful than some of us have been. The zipper moved slightly, then half an inch, passed the bulge and finally closed with an easy slide.

A lot of people wish that Mr. Truman or congress, or both, could close that kind of zipper on the national budget.

HIGH, OR LOW, FINANCE

(Milwaukee Journal)

The Eire government has just collected a $20,000 loan made to the then new Bolshevik government of Russia by representatives of the Irish republic back in 1920, the London Observer reports. The security was a collection of Russian jewels valued, it now develops, at no more than $5,600.

Shades of 19th century finance! A $20,000 international loan! That wouldn't pay the expenses of an international borrower on a visit to the World Bank these days.

A nation that approached another nation in this year of 1950 with a request for $20,000 would get as cool a welcome by walking into Tiffany's and asking for a 2c horseshoe nail ring.

New Suit

By Gordon Martin

Man must battle many problems in the time he spends on earth, and he thinks sometimes that life's inclined to tears instead of mirth. And he wonders why a woman has to complicate his plight, supervising his affairs and giving orders with delight. As for instance, there's a custom that he thinks he should dispute—just why is it that his wife must go to help him buy a suit?

Now he hasn't got a fighting chance to choose the clothes he needs, for his wife must pass her judgment on the worsteds and the tweeds. She expresses her opinion on each suit the salesman shows, turning down the ones that catch his eye by turning up her nose. When he dares to say he likes the plaids or possibly the checks, she will sniff and say such youthful stuff is not for ancient wrecks.

But at last she picks a suit for him—it's one that's sort of drab, and he's got to let her have her way and listen to her gab. It will give him lots of wear, she says, and never show the dirt, and it's then he's got to watch himself or sure enough he'll blurt: "Men have got sufficient trouble, without bossy dames to boot, and I surely wish you'd stay at home when I must buy a suit!"

MARTIN

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Despite the red carpet rolled out for the likable young Shah of Iran during his lengthy visit to the U. S. A., alarming diplomatic dispatches from the Near East indicate that Russia is getting closer to taking over his vital, oil-rich country.

Able U. S. Ambassador John Wiley has been cabling the state department for weeks that Moscow is making tremendous progress in Iran. Its weapons are largely beyond control of the United States—political and economic turmoil growing out of a crop failure, business panic and government graft. These are bringing new members to the noisy Tudeh, or pro-Communist party, which is being egged on by Russian radio transmitters across the border.

The Shah, who made a big hit during his American visit, returned to announce "a holy war against corruption." However, this got him in wrong with wily politicians around the throne who now would be glad to dump him and play ball with Russia—provided they weren't afraid of being purged later by the Communists. Meanwhile, secret talks are taking place in Moscow on economic aid to Iran.

The crisis is moving so rapidly that diplomatic cables indicate the Shah has prepared a proclamation dissolving parliament and revamping his government.

PRESIDENTIAL POKER

When government notables slip into the White House or aboard the presidential yacht Williamsburg after dark, it isn't always to discuss problems of state but more often to play poker.

In fact, few White House sessions are more secret than the president's poker parties. He invites only the most intimate friends to sit at his poker table, usually eight at a time. There they see Truman's most sociable side, for he is full of mischief during a poker evening.

The president deals left-handed, loves to taunt anyone needing a particular card. When dealing, if he has dropped out of play, he will peek mischievously at the card before dealing, then slap it down and chuckle gleefully if it's the wrong card. Sometimes he takes a poll of what his guests want to play, then deals something else.

Truman enjoys playing with wild cards, particularly with the low hole-card wild. He is fond of a game he calls "Papa Vinson," named in honor of Chief Justice Fred Vinson. This is ordinary stud, played with an extra draw. Another Truman favorite is regular seven-card stud, which he has dubbed "Jack Garner" in honor of the former vice president who made a fortune playing poker.

FAIR DEAL FOR LOSERS

The president likes to play for fun, gets no kick out of letting the stakes run high and the game get grim. Sometimes at $400. West recently the stakes were around $400. To take care of losers, Truman taxes 5 to 10 per cent of each stake which is paid into a special kitty; and when a losing player goes broke, he is entitled to a free grant from the kitty. At the end of the game, the kitty is divided equally among all players.

Most presidential poker sessions are held on the Williamsburg after dark. The president doesn't let them drag much past midnight, however, because he is an early riser.

When the poker chips are flying and the presidential bourbon is flowing, the president forgets his burdens, and for a few hours becomes just plain Harry again.

Note—The three friends most frequently called up for presidential poker games are Chief Justice Vinson; Clark Clifford, the ex-White House aide, and George Allen, the ex-White House jester. The president takes particular delight in beating Allen, chuckles merrily at Allen's poker luck.

NEW DEMOCRATS

The Democratic party is busy doing missionary work among the 137,000 former aliens who have been sworn in as citizens since the last election and will vote for the first time this year.

Word has been sent to all Democratic state chairmen to compile a list of these naturalized citizens and make Democrats of them before November.

In many congressional districts, they might easily become the balance of power. For example, New York has 46,500 newly naturalized citizens; California, 18,500; Massachusetts, 9,600; New Jersey, 7,500; Michigan, 7,000; Illinois, 6,500; Pennsylvania, 5,500; and Ohio, 4,000. Even little Connecticut has 4,000 and Florida 2,000 former aliens who can now vote. What makes their votes count is that they are congregated in one or two congressional districts in each state.

This is the reason the Democratic party is working so hard to convert them.

Take My Word For It . . . Frank Colby

LET—LEAVE—LET US

I cannot think of another term in English so often misused as the contraction "let's." First of all, "let's" is simply short for "let us," the literal meaning of which is, "permit us to . . ."

But in common usage, "let's" has taken on a rather vague meaning that is equivalent to "suppose we . . ." or "what do you say if we . . ." And, in writing, the apostrophe often is omitted, as, "lets go for a walk."

The most frequent misuses are, "Let's don't," "let's us don't," and "don't let's us." In fact, we are so accustomed to such expressions as, "Let's don't argue about it," "let's us don't quarrel; don't let us fail to go," that few of us realize that what we actually are saying is: "let's us do not argue about it; let us us do not quarrel; do not let us us fail to go."

Indeed, in a recent magazine serial, an unusually well written and enjoyable story, the author causes his heroine to say to her sweetheart, "Let's you take me home now (Let us you take me home now)."

Don't worry about your hands getting cold. Prices will keep them in your pockets most of the time.

Johnny Stibbi Is Only A Memory Now, And A Lesson For Americans

By NICHOLAS BLATCHFORD

Death and a small boy have little in common—meeting seldom and then only as if by chance—so it is not surprising that Johnny Stibbi's family still cannot quite think of him as dead.

Johnny would have been five years old this month if he had not been run over by the truck.

That was two weeks ago.

Johnny Stibbi was a 10-pound baby when he was born, his mother remembers, and he was 10 months old when his father, a soldier, came back from overseas.

He was three years old when his mother, whose married life had become a nightmare to her took Johnny and the new baby Bobby, back home to live with her mother in Washington.

This is where Johnny began to grow up.

The house is big and airy and filled with sunlight. When the Stibbis moved in, it was already full of people—Johnny's middle-aged grandparents and his great-grandfather and several aunts and uncles who weren't many years older than Johnny, himself.

It was a big, happy devout Catholic family and Johnny, who had a sort of inner brightness about him, became the center of it.

Johnny's mother, Bernadette, is a young, pretty girl with a fresh, open face like the cover on an outdoor magazine. When she talks about Johnny her face lights up and she laughs when she remembers how he was.

"Johnny," she says, and the name comes out full of tenderness. "Johnny was an extremist. He ran hot and cold. When he loved you, he just loved you. He was on the garage roofs and fences and in the alleys all the time. He was one complete bombshell. He just never let go."

She laughed just to think of it. "He was very athletic," she said. "He could ride a two-wheel bicycle with one hand. I've got it out in the shed, locked up now."

"And roller skates! Oh, it was windy that day he learned. I was almost freezing standing outside watching him. He was rolling up and down, hands out, and then bent down, holding his knees."

"Not going fast, but learning good control. My, I was proud of him."

Mrs. Stibbi's voice became serious now—serious and intent. "You know we are religious," she said. "Johnny always wore a crucifix around his neck and at night he'd hang it on his bunk bed. He just wanted it . . ."

Johnny's grandmother, Mrs. Mary Spalding, an intense, emotional woman, said:

"He was afraid of anything. Not cars, trucks or evils. He had the bluest eyes . . ."

She turned her face away and wept quietly.

"He wanted to go to school so badly," Mrs. Stibbi said. "He stayed around the older children all the time. That Monday, just before he was killed, the sister told my mother: 'Mrs. Spalding, don't send Johnny to school next year. Let him play just one more year. They have, so little time!'"

The Saturday before the Monday when Johnny was killed, he came in late from the movies.

"He was tired," his grandmother said, "and I carried him upstairs and put him on the bed, started taking his shoes off and then I pulled his pants off and then quickly—just like lightning—he threw his shoes at me. He kicked with both feet, right in my stomach."

"He was awfully tired and all mixed up and I started to say something to him, but he just lay based on scientific principles. The timbers of the sides were carefully interwoven; each bay or space between perpendicular timbers had a truss of crossed timbers. These were mortised into the uprights.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Every town loves its children; lots of towns display that feeling with signs like the one at right. But lots of youngsters get run over by lots of cars just the same. Not many stories are written about them. Here's one with unusual human impact. It first appeared in the Washington Daily News, but it could be any place—your own street, even your own small boy. You could even be the driver, for it doesn't have to be your fault for a little boy to die. It could be his. You have to look out for him, too.

Why were bridges covered? Perhaps to prevent horses and oxen from becoming frightened; but more probably as an economic device to protect the investment in the bridge. After all it was simple to build a roof over the bridge was in place. First bridges were financed by individuals and tolls were charged for crossing; later, most communities took over the maintenance costs and gave free crossing on the bridges. Many a lad on the way home from school has stopped to read the posters about the circus, the ads for auctions, horse liniments, plug tobacco, spring tonics, farm machinery, saving cures, liver pills and county fairs. A sign at each end said, "Walk, or pay a fine of two dollars." Now one by one the old bridges are going. It is an inevitable part of the passing of the old and the coming of the new. But here and there on our countryside some of the appealing old bridges will remain for years to come—examples of the honest craftsmanship of yesteryear.

Liked Pancake Feed

Dear Editor:

Hats off to the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce for the Farmers day party they put on for us on Saturday. The pancakes were fine, and so was the genuine maple syrup produced in sugar bushes right here in Delta county. Our kids liked the movies, and we grownups enjoyed meeting the business men of Escanaba and getting acquainted with them.

on the bed and said, "I'm going to die. I'm going to die. I'm going to die."

"Well, if you aren't the funniest looking dead guy I ever saw," I told him.

"I was so amused. Because he was a hundred miles from dying," "He would do that for love," Johnny's mother said.

"The more you talk about it, the easier it gets," Mrs. Stibbi said. "It was about two o'clock Monday afternoon when Johnny came in. I was sitting here. I pulled my chair over to comb his hair."

"My, you look good," I said. "Johnny stepped back, brought his heels together smartly, made a little bow and kissed his hand to her."

"That was the last time I saw him," Mrs. Stibbi said. "Later, I heard he had been playing ball with some older boys and someone threw the ball at him and he missed it. Then he must have run out in the street. That's when it happened."

"First thing I knew of it was when Wendell Brooks—that's Johnny's friend—came running back and gave me Johnny's pen-knife."

"Johnny's been hurt," he said. "Is he by himself?" "No. Some men are with him."

"I don't think I asked any more questions. That was enough."

Mrs. Stibbi's father had just come home, and she got him to drive her to the Boys Club.

"As soon as we turned down 17th Street and saw that little blond head sticking out of that blanket, I knew," Mrs. Stibbi said. "Blood was coming from his head, and I called to him, but he didn't recognize me."

"Mother, you'd better wait in the squad car," a policeman told her.

"Is he conscious?" she asked. "No," the policeman said. "My first prayer was 'God, don't hurt his little brain.' Mrs. Stibbi said, 'He was so bright.'"

"I really began to pray fast. Just as fast and hard as I could. A woman asked me if I wanted a drink, but I didn't want one. "I got in the ambulance with him, and the doctor was working on his lungs. We were just turning down 19th Street when I saw his ears were turning blue."

"He's not going to die, is he?" I asked the doctor.

"All right now, mother," he said. "I knew what that meant. I'd have to keep my head if I wanted to stay with him. The siren was going, but I didn't hear it."

Mrs. Stibbi followed her boy into the hospital.

"They took Johnny right into the middle of the room and cut his shirt and long underwear up the back," she said. "There were five or six doctors there."

Later, Mrs. Stibbi joined her mother on a bench in the waiting room. Her mother wanted to go in to Johnny.

"You couldn't do any good," a policeman told her. "He wouldn't know you now."

Another policeman came up and asked Mrs. Stibbi some questions about Johnny. His name, his address.

Telling it, she struggled to keep herself composed.

"I kept saying 'God is good,'" Mrs. Stibbi said. "Then I was put through a question mark on it. 'God is good?'"

"What I meant was 'God is wonderful,' but what it came out was: "Is this what He means?"

"Then I had an answer right behind it. I had an increase in faith."

They brought Johnny Stibbi home Wednesday and laid him out in the front room in a white satin-lined casket. At first they wanted to dress him in his cowboy suit and bandana. But then they decided to dress him in an Eton coat, long gray trousers and white shoes—"like he was going to church." That's the way it was.

Everybody sent flowers and all the kids came over from Payne School, the Negro school in the neighborhood. They were friends of Johnny's.

Mrs. Stibbi's wreath of white carnations was set over the casket, and Johnny's baby identification bracelet from Sibley Hospital was on his wrist.

"I really regarded that child," Mrs. Stibbi says. "He was something special to me."

Johnny's brother, Bobby, is too young to understand most of this. He is aware that Johnny has gone someplace, and seems to miss him; but he is happy, the way healthy, tiny little boys usually are.

He has taken to wearing some of Johnny's clothes.

"Johnny can't wear this shirt now," he'll say. "Just me."

Good Evening . . .

BUILDING UP — The Escanaba community is building up.

It is growing faster than many of us may realize. For that reason it might be well to consider the building program now under way, and the planned construction projects that will make Escanaba still more impressive.

This city is now on the eve of the biggest building boom in its history. Within the next few years you will be able to watch Escanaba grow.

From many aspects — physical and esthetic — the face of the city will change. That it will be improved as a city in which to work and to live will be a tribute to our citizens and their firm belief in Escanaba's future.

BY THE DOZEN — The projects now under way or proposed number not one or two—but exceed a dozen! We are not considering the private home building projects, but those on a larger scale, vital to large numbers of our population.

THE GROWING LIST—Some of the projects are private, some publicly financed. But let's get on with the list:

A factory being built for the Delta Furniture company is now nearing completion at the old Steele-Wallace building site. And have you noticed the improvement in that area in recent years?

The Harnischfeger corporation, already occupying new buildings at the old Steele-Wallace site and near the U. P. State Fair grounds, has announced plans for a half-million dollar plant expansion at its Truck-Crane plant near the Fair Grounds.

FOR A NEW LOOK—Turning from the industrial side of the picture, let's consider the projects listed for Ludington Park area.

The citizens of Escanaba have indicated their approval of the city constructing a $750,000 water filter plant and pumping station, bonds to be retired from water utility earnings. This construction will replace the present eyesore—not to mention the present pumping station's inadequacy.

And the city council has gone on record approving the construction of a bathhouse at the south shore beach, a project long-awaited by the general public.

Private citizens currently are ready to launch a campaign to finance a Frank Karas memorial band shell at the park. There is no schedule on construction—but it will be built!

THE QUESTION MARK—The state office building? That depends somewhat on the temper of the state legislature, but all the signs are hopeful.

The proposal is for the state to make an appropriation, matching $100,000 bequeathed for such an office building by Escanaba's benefactress, the late Mrs. Catherine Bonifas. This building is proposed to be built on city-donated property in the Ludington street 300 block.

Another question mark is a new 4-H club cattle barn at the U. P. State Fair grounds. That also demands a legislative appropriation.

FOR EDUCATION—Add to the building list a new high school athletic field stadium, scheduled for completion before next fall.

Unscheduled, but definitely on the list because of requests for those purposes in the will of Mrs. Bonifas, are the following:

A new public Senior high school, a new Catholic central high school, a special education school for handicapped children.

St. Thomas parish is planning a school and church and St. Patrick's church a new grade school.

And not to be overlooked—although it is not connected with education—is the proposed addition to St. Francis hospital.

The time is near when you won't be able not to see Escanaba grow—unless you close your eyes.

Into The Past

10 YEARS AGO

Washington — President Roosevelt has decided to recommend that congress appropriate $985,000,000 for the WPA in the next fiscal year.

Bucharest—Warships of five powers maneuvered under secret orders within striking distance of Dardanelles tonight as the small neutral nations of southwestern Europe reinforced their defenses and moved to stamp out Nazi influence within their borders. The Turks hold the Dardanelles Straits, focal point of the naval activity spreading through the Aegean and Black Seas.

Escanaba—J. C. McGonagle and John A. Lemmer were elected delegates to the state convention of the Knights of Columbus to be held in Grand Rapids.

Escanaba—Martin Gaffney of Green Bay, for many years a passenger train engineer on the C&NW railway, has retired after serving on the railroad since 1887.

Escanaba—L. L. White, chief operating officer of the C&NW railway, and F. J. Byington, general manager, arrived in Escanaba to start an inspection tour of the mining areas.

20 YEARS AGO

Escanaba—The contract for Escanaba's paving program for 1930 was awarded by the city council to Coleman Nee of Escanaba.

Chicago—Robbers held up a mail truck en route from air field to the postoffice and escaped with five sacks of registered mail. The mail had just arrived by plane from Green Bay, Wis.

Los Angeles—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's high altitude experimental flight, which will start from here in a few days, will be the first in which he has carried an aviation sextant.

Doolittle's Raiders Back Great Ideal

By HUBBARD KEAVY
PALMS DESERT, Calif.—(AP)—“It's time to stop out-exaggerating each other,” is the way Lt. Horace E. Crouch of Columbia, S. C., put it and he thus set the keynote for the fifth annual reunion of Doolittle's Tokyo raiders.
Gathered here in the desert oasis, and looking not much older, were 36 of the 80 men who flew 16 B-25s over Japanese targets eight years ago next Tuesday. They admittedly are a little weary of exchanging reminiscences.
It is “time for a purpose,” said Lt. Crouch.
The “purpose” was discussed briefly at last year's reunion in Galveston, Tex., but it didn't get a full head of steam until the boys came here today. Now, with the enthusiastic help of Lt. Gen. James H. Doolittle, who led that famous raid, the boys are “writing up” their histories to produce a documentary of one of the great stories of American ingenuity.

They believe the public will join them in furthering a great ideal. But let Lt. Robert L. Hite of Earth, Tex., long a prisoner of the Japs after those “30 seconds over Tokyo,” and Lt. Jack E. Manch of Staunton, Va., tell it:
“Jake got an idea. (Jake is Corp. Jacob D. Deshazer of Madras, Ore., bombardier of Hite's plane.) It was to go back and teach those Japanese something about humanity. He said a voice came to him during those 30 hellish months he spent in solitary in a Jap prison.
“Well, voice or whatever, he went back. He's a missionary in Japan now and we're going to finance him. We raised $400 at last year's meeting and we hope it got to Jake. Yeah, he's an ordinary minister—Free Methodist.
“We want also to give something to Chinese relief. Everyone of us who landed in China was nursed, clothed and fed by Chinese. We owe them a helluva lot, and we're going to do something about it.”
And so the daring raid, which started from the carrier Hornet, may result in a greater good than 1942's psychological feat of showing an enemy what Americans “coddled by decadent Democratic ideas” could do.
This informal organization of American airmen hopes through sales of their history to help the Chinese who helped them and to further the ideals that Corporal Jake is trying to spread in Japan. Because Jake's ideal has become their ideal.
“These boys—and I'm not commanding this outfit, I'm just one of them—want to do something to enhance their worth and live for the future,” said General Doolittle about the project. “None of us wants to live in the past, on the glory of eight years ago.”

Bolivian Beauty Flees Betrothal, Looking For Love

TULSA, Okla.—(AP)—A Bolivian beauty who fears marriage to a man “I can never love” begged immigration officers for permission to stay in the United States.
Mireya Uriguidi, 22, pleaded with naturalization chief J. C. Stewart to extend her six-months visitor's visa. The permit expires in June.
She says a return to South America would mean marrying her father's friend—a man twice her age to whom she has been betrothed since birth. She did not give their names.

Man Won't Relent
She told in a soft accent, her dark eyes often tearful, of a hurried departure from her Cochabamba, Bolivia, home in the midst of wedding preparations.
“I had told my father many times that I respected the man he had chosen for my husband, but that I didn't love him,” Mireya said.
“My father wouldn't listen to me because it is the accepted custom of our family for the father to choose husbands for the daughters.”

“I even pleaded with the man, who is a wealthy diplomat, to release me from our engagement, but he refused and said it could not be broken. He said I would have to marry him.”
Mireya's mother, “more interested in my happiness than my marriage,” gave her money to come to this country. The American consul suggested the home of an acquaintance in Tulsa.
“But my father will never forgive me and he says I cannot come home unless I marry his friend,” the girl told Stewart.

College Course Suggested
Mireya said she was fearful her father may force her to return and she implored reporters to keep the name of her home town out of the newspapers.
Stewart suggested she enter the University of Tulsa, although already a college graduate, in order to obtain a student's visa for the duration of enrollment.

The immigration officer cautioned against a marriage of convenience so she could stay in the United States.
“Oh, no!” Mireya shook her head. “I would only marry for love. A marriage of convenience is what I am trying to escape.”

TR's Hat Lives In Woman's Memory

LONG BEACH, Calif.—(AP)—Mrs. Etta Mae Timm of Long Beach says her son holds the distinction of being the only person to “knock” President Theodore Roosevelt's hat off—and get away with it. It happened at a parade in San Francisco in 1905.
Mrs. Timm and her boy, Edward A. Howard, now a 47-year-old iron works employe in Corpus Christi, Tex., were located strategically on a curb.
The great Teddy came abreast, smiling and flourishing his cane. Two-year-old Eddie, waving back with his own cane, gayly whacked the President's silk topper in to the street. A Secret Service man hastily retrieved it.
“The President was nice about it,” Mrs. Timm recalls. “He just grinned and shook a finger at Eddie who grinned right back. But was I embarrassed!”

Light Bidding At Land Sale

20 Parcels Sold By Auctioneers

Twenty 40 acre plots of land in Schoolcraft, Menominee and Delta counties out of a total of 34 offered for sale were sold to highest bidders at an auction conducted by the Michigan Department of Conservation at the Escanaba city hall council chambers this morning.

Seven 40 acre plots in Delta county were put up for sale and six of them were sold for a total value of $1120. There were 18 parcels of 40 acres each in Menominee county offered and 13 were sold for a total of $2120. Nine parcels in Schoolcraft county were offered but only one was sold at a bid price of $225. Seven lots in Schoolcraft county were included in the offering but there was no bidding for the lots.

The 20 parcels sold brought a total price of $3,485. The sale was conducted by H. S. Gibbs, assisted by H. R. Bucks, both of the Department of Conservation. Approximately 40 persons attended the sale.

Kansas City Slayings To Be Exploited In Republican Campaign

ST. LOUIS—(P)—Sen. Harry P. Cain (R-Wash.) says the slaying of politician Charles Binaggio will play an important part in Republican strategy in the coming elections.

Binaggio, Kansas City north-side Democratic boss, and his henchman, ex-convict Charles Gargotta, were shot to death April 5 in their political headquarters. Cain declared last night that the slayings "in all their sordidness" should be exploited by the Republicans.

He spoke at a $100-a-plate GOP banquet.

Later Cain told reporters that "numerous" Republican Senators join him in urging President Truman "to be as interested in who murdered them as he would have been if Jim Pendergast had been murdered."

Jim Pendergast, nephew of the late Boss Tom Pendergast, heads a Kansas City Democratic faction which opposed Binaggio's faction. President Truman holds a membership card in the Pendergast group. The president was cool toward Binaggio.

Harbor Ice Opened And Beaver Island Gets Easter Finery

ST. JAMES, Beaver Island, Mich.—(P)—Beaver Islanders finally have their Easter suits and new spring bonnets.

The shipping season to the island was formally opened Monday by the North Star, out of Charlevoix. It was led into the St. James harbor by the Coast Guard icebreaker Woodbine.

The ship carried parcel post and other mail which had been stacking up on the mainland, outstripping the capacity of the mail plane which makes winter flights to the island.

The Easter clothing of many island families was included in the mail. Also aboard the North Star were groceries, grain and the corpse of James Martin, longtime Beaver Island fisherman who died in Petoskey two weeks ago.

The North Star will make three trips weekly until summer. Then, it will start daily service, carrying goods and tourists from Charlevoix, 30 miles away.

Dying Generals Hint New Moscow Purge

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
NEW YORK—(P)—Moscow has announced, in the past half year, the deaths of 15 Russian generals and admirals—some of them rather young.

The appearance of such obituaries so frequently in the Soviet press naturally arouses speculation in the west over the possibility of a new purge in the Soviet Union. However, there has been no hint in the advices which pass through Moscow censorship that a purge actually is under way.

Even if the Soviet press has reported all the deaths of the top military brass, a rather high mortality rate is indicated, particularly when a number of the officers were in their forties.

Other high-ranking Soviet functionaries also have passed away recently. They include Peter Anurov, a counselor first class in the Soviet foreign ministry. His age was not given in the March 5 death notice, but it said the death was "untimely." Another such was Anatoli Kopytov, minister of cinematography, who died March 10. He was only 43.

Alexander Petukhov, deputy chief of the Communist party central committee organization bureau, died April 13. His age was

Chrysler Peace Talks Tangled

DETROIT—(P)—Peace talks in the Chrysler pension strike were still tangled up in technicalities today but progress was noted.

A series of union concessions on subordinate points came out of 15 hours of talks as negotiators worked into the owl hours for a second time within five days.

The striking CIO United Auto Workers offered to compromise on certain points governing eligibility under $100 monthly pensions.

Already the principal issue—funding for the plan—has been agreed upon. Chrysler has met the union's demand for a trust fund.

A set of qualifications, however, remains to be worked out.

Some sharp words preceded the latest maneuvers.

Chrysler, in a public statement, charged that the union was using a "rubber ruler" in comparing Chrysler's offer to those agreed to with other firms.

Chrysler, like other major companies, offers $100 pensions, including social security, at age 65 after 25 years service.

State Budget Put Deeper In Red By Gov. Williams

LANSING—(P)—Governor Williams added $2,316,315 to his proposed state budget, already $110,000,000 in the red.

He told the legislature the additional requests resulted from new developments and additional facts.

One of the items was $750,000 for the reconstruction of Ferris Institute at Big Rapids, which was largely destroyed by fire Feb. 21. Of the total, $650,000 would be construction funds and $100,000 to bolster depleted operating money.

Williams asked for $610,000 more for the hospitalization of tubercular cases in the light of a more accurate prediction of such need.

Rising demand by veterans for homestead tax exemption led to a $500,000 increase in that item. Another $203,890 resulted from a more careful estimate of the cost of housing state mental patients at Eloise hospital and $75,000 more was asked for an increase in boarding mental patients in private homes.

The governor asked for $36,500 to continue the work of his sex deviate study commission.

He sought $140,925 increased in airport matching money as a result of decisions by Kent county and St. Clair county for expanded airport projects.

Jet Transport Cuts Toronto Hop In Two

NEW YORK—(P)—The Avro Jetliner, America's first jet transport, landed at International Airport at 10:30 a. m. (EST) today after a one hour flight from Toronto, 335 miles away.

The normal flying time between the two cities is one hour and 50 minutes.

Note Gives Facts On Touchy Soviet Cold War Scrap

the note said.

It added that the U. S. investigation convinced this government that the Navy plane did not fly over "any Soviet or Soviet occupied territory or territorial waters adjacent thereto."

State department press officer Michael J. McDermott, also made a formal statement which rebuked Russia for failing to show the slightest evidence of any concern over the fate of the 10 missing Americans.

Search Abandoned
By contrast, he praised the non-Communist Scandinavian countries for their active efforts in the rescue search.

In Moscow Ambassador Kirk had an appointment with Soviet deputy foreign minister Andrei A. Gromyko to deliver the note.

The state department made the note public here later following Moscow's procedure in publishing the initial protest on April 11.

A wide spread search for the missing plane was abandoned yesterday.

Vishinsky said Russian fighters jumped the American plane 13 miles inside the boundary of Latvia, the former independent Baltic state which Russia occupied in 1940. The point he named was nearly 300 miles off the direct course between Weisbaden and Copenhagen.

Bank Accounts Traced In Perjury Trial Of 5-Percent Maragon

WASHINGTON, — (P) — The perjury trial of John F. Maragon produced evidence today that at the time he admitted having only one bank account he had another in Texas under the name of J. H. Maragon.

The onetime bootblack, who used to have friends at the White House, is on trial in federal court on charges of lying to Senate investigators last year about his business affairs.

Among other things, the government has accused him of lying when he told the Senators last July 28 that in 1945 and 1946 his only bank account was in Washington.

The committee was looking into the activities of five percenters—men who handle business deals with the government for a fee, usually five per cent.

McCarthy Wants FBI Agents As Witnesses In His Red Spy Hunt

WASHINGTON—(P)—Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) announced today that he will ask Senators investigating his charges of Communism in the government to subpoena two former FBI agents. He said one of the FBI men became a member of the Communist party in order to carry on "under cover" work.

McCarthy told reporters he would give the names of the two men to Edward P. Morgan, counsel for the Senate Foreign Relations Investigating subcommittee later in the day.

He declined to disclose the identity of either man. It was understood that both witnesses would testify in connection with McCarthy's charges that Owen Lattimore is Russia's top agent in this country.

Since the end of the war, thousands of veterans have gone into small businesses of their own and are operating them successfully. I believe small business must exist and prosper—Commerce Secretary Charles Sawyer.

British Income Tax Relaxed

LONDON—(P)—Sir Stafford Cripps eased income tax burdens for sorely pressed British workers today, but clamped a checkrein on runaway costs of the welfare state.

Cripps firmly clung to his two-and-one-half year old policy of holding down wages and profits.

He regards this policy as necessary to stave off the continuing threat of inflation and to keep down prices of exports, which he said are booming again as the result of devaluation of the pound last Sept. 18.

Devaluation of the pound from its former level of $4.03 to $2.80 has turned out better than expected, he told a crowded house.

Father Puts Bomb On Plane To Kill Wife, Loses Nerve

Grant told him most of the debts were incurred in connection with a paternity suit involving her husband in New York several years ago.

Sick Man, He Says
"The last few weeks he's been very nice to me," McCreadie quoted Mrs. Grant. "Last week he told me to buy a new dress. I wondered why he was being so nice. I guess this must be the answer."

Grant during the war was an engineer for Douglas Aircraft Corp., specializing in DC-6s. After the war he went to American Airlines in New York to supervise DC-6 operations and came here in 1947 as resident engineer for American Airlines. He left American in 1948 and for the past 11 months had been employed as a laboratory technician at Alresch Manufacturing Co., near the airport.

Grant is held on investigation of attempted murder.

Mrs. Grant said her husband is a "worry-bug" but added: "I'm not a vengeful woman but I can't describe just how I feel now. I want to talk to John."

The children told reporters they were disappointed because they didn't get the plane ride.

Said Bobby, who was five yesterday, "it was supposed to be a birthday present for me."

Snakes And Lizards Hanging In Trees; Butcher Bird Blamed

TROY, N. C. — (P)—The mystery of the dead snakes hanging from trees in North Carolina appeared solved today: They were impaled by shrikes, or butcher birds.

That was the consensus of scientists and laymen alike. The snakes were first discovered on thorny locust trees here Sunday, and then similar reports came in from other parts of the state.

The snakes here—plus a mouse and lizard on trees—have been viewed by thousands of curious folk.

Dr. A. D. Shaftesbury, biology professor at the women's college of the University of North Carolina in Greensboro, gave this explanation, which was backed by other scientists:

The great northern shrike, also called a loggerhead shrike, snatches its victim in its notched bill, which is hooked at the tip. Unlike other birds of prey, it has no claws, and therefore doesn't tear its victim apart with beak and feet. Instead, it lights on a thorny tree or barbed wire fence, and impales its food.

Hainan Defenders Fight Fiercely To Halt Red Invasion

By SPENCER MOOSA

TAIPEI, Formosa — (P)—Chinese Nationalists said today their planes killed more than 2,000 Red invaders of Hainan island on invasion craft and beaches.

Air headquarters said the toll was counted only until evening of the yesterday's fighting.

Nationalist defenders of the vital South China island, fighting back on the ground, sea and in the air, continued the battle today against more than 7,000 Red invaders who have established two beachheads.

Nationalist ground forces claimed they have contained the Red invaders who stormed ashore early yesterday. The Nationalists asserted the Communists succeeded in landing only about half of a 15,000-man force hurled in the greatest amphibious operation against the big stronghold off South China.

Warships On Watch
Ground force commanders declared they have a good chance of wiping out the beachheads within the next 48 hours if Red reinforcements can be kept from landing. The Nationalist navy was reported to have this situation in hand, with warships deployed to cut off any Communist craft attempting to put more troops ashore.

Nationalist air force planes were attacking the Reds on the beaches, reports from Hainan said.

The Red Armada moved across the 10-mile strait between Hainan and the Luichow peninsula under cover of darkness Sunday night. The Nationalists say their warships attacked the junk fleet, sinking scores of the troop-laden craft and scattering others. The Nationalists claimed half of the 200 Red craft were sunk or prevented from accomplishing their mission.

But the rest of the Red force made Hainan's north coast yesterday between 2 and 5 a. m. The Nationalists said 6,000 to 7,000 seized a beachhead on Limko Cape 40 miles west of Hoihow, Hainan's capital. About 1,000 gained a foothold on the shore of Limko bay east of the cape.

Holding Their Own
The Reds have made a half-dozen attempts in the past few weeks to land on Hainan, an island of 13,500 square miles that is second only to Formosa in importance to the Nationalists.

The biggest of the previous attempts was undertaken on April 1. The Nationalists asserted they killed 5,000 Reds and captured 2,000 at that time despite the Chinese tendency to exaggerate battle casualties, this appeared to be a real Nationalist victory.

(Travelers arriving in Hong Kong today from Hainan said the Nationalists were "holding their own" and their position "looks no worse" than at any time in the past month.)

Kerr Bill Veto Surprised Many

Southwest Senators Peaved At Truman

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

WASHINGTON—At a recent dinner party at the home of one of Washington's most famous hostesses, Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, a group of Senators were discussing the Kerr natural gas bill and what President Truman would do about it. One of the Republicans present offered to bet any sum of money, giving odds of ten to one, that the president would sign the bill.

None of the Democrats present were in the least interested in taking him up on the bet. In the group was Senator Robert S. Kerr of Oklahoma, father of the bill, who beamed with confidence at this exchange.

The Republicans are probably even more disappointed by the president's veto than the Texans and Oklahomans who were so bent on taking the production of natural gas out from under federal regulation. They had counted on the president's approval of the measure as their hottest campaign issue this fall.

They planned to exploit it to the fullest to show that the president didn't really mean it when he attacked the "special interests." Now, by his veto, the president has snatched away this opportunity to turn the tables on the whistle-stop campaigner and ridicule his pretension to speak for the common people.

Signed Reluctantly
Leslie Biddle, secretary of the Senate, who usually knows as much as anyone about what is going to happen in Washington, was predicting that the president would reluctantly sign. Southern Democrats were counting heavily on what they believed was an understanding with the White House to let the bill go through. A clause had been inserted in the Kerr bill calling for a continuous study of gas prices and the oil and gas spokesmen had counted on this as an "out" for the president.

In his veto message the president took the line of reasoning advanced with such skill and persistence on the floor of the Senate by Senator Paul Douglas of Illinois. This was to the effect that the production of natural gas as well as its distribution in the large cities of the north is a monopoly and therefore must be subject to government regulation in order to protect the consumer from exorbitant prices.

The fact that Douglas led the fight against the Kerr measure in some ways complicated the decision that confronted the president when he returned from his Florida vacation. And admittedly that decision was one of the most trying the president has had to make

PINT - SIZE TURBINE FOR KING - SIZE TRUCK — A mechanic at the Boeing Airplane Co., Seattle, Wash., shows the 200-pound, 175-horsepower gasoline turbine engine which is being used successfully to power the ten-ton truck behind him. The new engine, not yet ready for installation in your auto, occupies only 13 per cent of the space required for a conventional 200-horsepower gasoline engine. It runs equally well on gasoline, kerosene, light or heavy fuel oil, and has been test-run on bottled gas. Boeing engineers say the gas-turbine soon will compete with piston engines both in autos and trucks.

during his five years in the White House.

Douglas has won such extraordinary praise from all quarters that a very human jealousy burns in the bosoms of many of his colleagues. He has been repeatedly hailed as the most promising senatorial freshman in many years, and there have been suggestions of a presidential or at least a vice presidential nomination in the future.

The resentment was reflected in the snide speech in which Senator Harry Cain of Washington attacked Time magazine and Time's capitol reporter, Frank McNaughton. But in the cloak rooms in the final days of the Kerr bill debate it took an even more virulent form. The opinion was freely expressed that passage of the bill would give that smart-alec ex-professor from Illinois just what he deserved. Before he enlisted in the marine corps as a private at the outset of World War II, Douglas was a professor of economics at the University of Chicago.

The fact that the president took Douglas' viewpoint almost word for word certainly helped to inflame the wrath of that inflammable Texan, Senator Tom Connally. Speaker Sam Rayburn whose boiling point is almost as low as that of Connally, was led to angry imprecations expressed in private.

Mayors Sent Telegrams
Both these men exercise great power. If they choose to, they can hold up even rudimentary measures essential to government operation. It was because he knew so well what their reaction would be that the president wavered so long.

One of the strongest factors compelling him to a veto was the telegram signed by the mayors of 18 cities from Los Angeles to New York urging him to protect consumers. But another important factor was a trenchantly written memorandum from Secretary of Interior Oscar Chapman. Chapman never gave up hope that the president would in the end veto the bill.

The president has had great respect for Chapman's political acumen ever since the secretary, who was then undersecretary of interior, served as presidential advance man in the 1948 campaign. Chapman was one of the advisers who urged the president to show himself to as many people as possible at every whistle stop that could be reached in the time available.

He has had a lot to do with arranging the Truman trip next month when the president will go to the West Coast to dedicate the dam at Grand Coulee. The trip will stress the president's role in helping to provide low-cost power to attract new industry to the west. These claims, as Chapman pointed out, would have sounded very odd against the background of presidential approval of the Kerr bill.

But the consequences of the veto can likewise be costly. They may be seen in a further deterioration of the weak and indifferent leadership on Capitol Hill.

Farm Bureau's Militant Mr. Kline In Spotlight

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON —(NEA)—Allan Blair Kline, the tough, fighting president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, is the first farm leader in many years to zoom into real national prominence. That's mostly because of the militant leadership he has taken in the fight against the Brannan farm plan, a natural feel for good public relations and his eloquence in tossing out new ideas in defense of free enterprise.

There's probably not a personality quite like his on the national scene today. For instance, back in the depths of the depression, the bank was about to take away his worn-out Iowa farm. He was broke. His family was completely dispirited. But he talked the bank out of foreclosing with the argument that it wasn't moral.

Then he built a swimming pool and tennis court on his place, and bought some boxing gloves and some riding horses—on credit. Kline explains why he did these things:

"What all of us needed most was a boost in morale. I figured that some good recreation was the best remedy."

The unorthodox hunch paid off. The Kline farm became a county hangout and a clearing house for ideas on how to lick the hard times. Whenever the debates got too heated, the boxing gloves were used. But from those gabfests came many of the ideas which have made his farm today a $400,000-a-year business.

People are still wondering what Kline is going to do next. Some say he's a natural for vice-presidential candidacy. If Gen. Eisenhower runs, on the next Republican ticket, he's almost sure to take another term as head of the Farm Bureau. They swear he could be a senator from Iowa by saying the word. Another story makes him president of Iowa State College soon.

Kline is 54, but looks younger. He has an out-of-door handsomeness with lined, weatherbeaten features, a sharp, beaked nose, and a lot of coarse, graying wavy brown hair. His stocky, fat-free frame and huge muscular hands are those of a real farmer.

Although his critics insist there's a lot of the actor in Kline, they also admit he usually gives a good performance. He is an extremely effective public speaker. His one-farmer-to-another way of talking has a powerful effect on rural audiences, but he can be as polished as an ambassador before a Senate committee.

His effectiveness as a farm spokesman is greatly enhanced by a broad background. He has traveled widely in Europe and around the U. S. and has an internationalist's point of view. He has served as an official of several big insurance firms which do business with farmers, and as a member of the Chicago Federal Reserve Bank Board.

The job of representing 1,325,000 farm families isn't easy the way Kline likes to do it. There are just as many Democrats in the organization as there are Republicans, but he has always tried to handle his association with the Bureau in a fair manner.

For instance, after campaigning hard for the job of president, he suddenly vanished on the day that the convention was to vote.

After he had won, his furious backers found him and started to tell him off. He stopped them.

"They knew who I was and what I stood for," he said. "I had said everything I wanted to say. I figured they could make up their mind about me after that without my being around."

Kline was born in Waterbury, Neb., attended Morningside College in Sioux City, Ia., and Iowa State College. He has two grown sons, one now running the farm, and a married daughter. His religion is Presbyterian. His big regret is that his job keeps him away from his farm and family too much.

Navy Will Quit Midway Island

Figured Prominently In World War II

WASHINGTON, D. C. —The withdrawal of U. S. Navy personnel from Midway—that aptly named atoll in the heart of the vast Pacific—will close a chapter of American military history which has dramatic elements of national loss and pride.

Midway atoll, situated at the northwest end of the Hawaiian Islands, 1,300 miles from Honolulu, is a coral circle enclosing two islets, Sand and Eastern, notes the National Geographic Society.

In U. S. hands when the Japanese struck at Pearl Harbor, this fortified position was an early enemy objective. American victory over the major Japanese attack in the June, 1942, Battle of Midway ended Japan's hopes for capturing the "sentinel for Hawaii."

Though at heavy cost in men and equipment, the battle also taught valuable lessons in sea-air coordination, and opened the way for American counterattack in the South Pacific.

Midway's central location has made it not only strategic in war but useful for peacetime communications. Roughly halfway between the Asia and North America coasts, the islands are 2,545 miles from Tokyo, 3,205 miles from San Francisco. The Soviet port of Petropavlovsk, in Kamchatka, is 2,105 miles northwest. Kodiak, Alaska, is 2,375 miles northeast.

Jury Says Teaching Is Not Like Work

ELMIRA, N. Y. —(AP)—A jury has ruled officially that it isn't work to teach someone to fry oysters. Mrs. Ruth Granger, a waitress, testified she wasn't working, but was instructing a novice cook, when inspectors called at Paul Battisti's cafe.

The jury acquitted Battisti of permitting a woman to work between midnight and 6 a. m.

Strip Mines Reclaim Their Spoil Banks

WOOSTER, Ohio—(AP)—The strip mines of Ohio have found that the "spoil banks" can be reclaimed, says the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station. The spoil banks are the heaps of refuse made of material which has been stripped off and thrown aside to get at the coal underneath.

When these banks are leveled and planted, things will grow on them. Station experts report 1,018 acres reclaimed by 37 companies. They say the best time to grade the banks is the summer. When they are graded at other times, erosion spoils the grading before it can be planted. Also when heavy machinery runs over the banks in winter and spring the wet material is compacted too firmly.

Some of the banks will grow grasses, legumes or miscellaneous crops. Others should be planted to trees, they say. It depends on the kind of material in the banks.

Mules Used In Mine Operations

MORLEY, Colo.—(AP)—Morley mine has 134 on its work list which eat heartily every day whether the mine operates or not. When they work, these 134 mules earn their 16 pounds of oats daily plus all the hay they can shove down. This is one of the few coal mines in the country where mules are used to haul coal cars, because of gaseous conditions underground. Rhodda Floyd, a former cowboy, is the stable boss. U. S. Waterfowl Population Off

Decrease Is Near To 25 Per Cent

WASHINGTON (SS).—A drop of nearly 25 per cent in North American waterfowl—ducks, geese, brant, coot and swans—was shown by the 1950 migratory bird census.

The annual inventory was taken Jan. 10 to 13 in the U. S., Canada, Mexico and the West Indies. Albert M. Day, director of the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, reported the findings today.

Its sharp decrease under the 1949 count could mean shorter hunting seasons next fall unless northbound flocks find favorable conditions on breeding grounds in Arctic tundras and marshes.

Losses in continent-wide populations of almost all species of waterfowl were evident, Mr. Day reported. He blamed a late breeding season in 1949 combined with droughts and excessive drainage of waterfowl havens in the prairie sections of this country and Canada.

The drop in waterfowl numbers contradicts winter-long reports of local sportsmen "who in many areas have seen more ducks and geese this year than in former years," Mr. Day said.

This was because millions of waterfowl stayed in this country during the unusually mild fall. Instead of moving on to Mexico and other southern wintering grounds, he explained.

"In addition, birds were concentrated on reservoirs and other large bodies of water. Drought conditions dried up marshes in some parts of the country," he added.

Mexican wildlife observers, co-operating in the inventory, found a drastic decline in the wintering populations of waterfowl in coastal marshes and bays and in inland water areas.

Comparative figures on various types of waterfowl were not released by the Wildlife Service. The report indicated, however, that even swans, which are not hunted, showed an appreciable decline.

Mrs. Ford No. 1 Mother Of 1950

GRAND RAPIDS —(AP)—Mrs. Clara Bryant Ford, for more than a half century the helpmate of auto king Henry Ford, is Michigan's outstanding mother of 1950.

Picked by the Michigan mother of the year committee, Mrs. Ford's selection was announced here Saturday by Committee Chairman Mrs. Charles M. Houser.

Mrs. Ford, 84, got news of her selection in Ford hospital at Detroit, where she is undergoing treatment after a serious illness. Her famous husband died three years ago.

A citation announcing Mrs. Ford's selection said she "lent peace with the unparalleled career of Mr. Ford, yet never lost her own identity."

"In the years since his death," it added, "She has remained busy and interested in her work for she has the strength and spirit to withstand trial and sorrow."

The Fords had one son, Edsel, who died before his father, three grandsons and a granddaughter. One grandson, Henry Ford II, now is president of the Ford Motor Co., which his grandfather founded.

Hybrid Sugar Beet Developed

Greatly Increased Yields Promised

EAST LANSING, Mich. (SS)—Greatly increased yields of sugar beets are promised from a hybrid seed developed here.

This new hybrid seed will do for the sugar beet farmer what hybrid corn did for the corn farmer.

The new seed, known as Hybrid 125, was developed by H. L. Kohls of Michigan State College here. His development grew from a discovery made by Dr. F. V. Owen, a geneticist with the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Dr. Owen found that the new sugar beets could be bred through use of plants that do not have the ability to produce pollen. Pollen from other plants is used to give hybrid sugar beets that can be bred. These hybrids may give higher yields as well as increased disease resistance.

The new hybrid sugar beet is being grown in limited quantity now and small amounts of seed are expected to be available to farmers in 1951. The hybrid variety carries about the same resistance against leaf spot as do commercial varieties, and also produces a beet of about the same sugar content.

Flowers that are perfect pollinate themselves. If they are not perfect the pollen comes from some other source. When a sugar beet is male-sterile, it will not pollinate itself but the proper cross-pollination will yield a seed that is 100 percent hybrid. The discovery of this male-sterility characteristic thus opened the way to production of 100 percent hybrid seed. Previously this had not been possible.

Taxation Trims Ford Estate

MT. CLEMENS, Mich., (AP) — Taxes took a chunk of $35,007,847 out of the estate of $128,039,503 left by Edsel B. Ford, only son of the founder of the Ford Motor Co.

This was disclosed in an accounting before Probate Judge Joseph B. Trombley.

The accounting showed that both the voting and non-voting stock of the family-owned Ford Motor Co., is valued at $90 a share.

Mrs. Eleanor Clay Ford, widow of Edsel B. Ford, was left an inheritance of $19,105,837. This included property she had owned jointly with her husband and her one-fifth share of the Class B voting stock of the Ford Motor Co.

The amount of this stock, 59,411 shares valued at $5,346,990, was divided equally among Mrs. Ford and her four children, Henry Ford II, 32; Benson, 30; Mrs. Josephine Ford Ford, 26, and William Clayton Ford, 25.

Mrs. Ford's fifth and final accounting to the court, closed, a trust fund that had been established for William Clay Ford until he reached his 25th birthday.

The final accounting gave $411,830 to the Ford Foundation. This represented the final portion of Edsel Ford's bequest to the foundation of $102,842,810 in Class A and Co. stock. Out of this amount, however, the educational foundation must repay to the Chase National Bank of New York $31,000,000. This covers a loan made to Mrs. Ford by the bank in 1947 to facilitate distribution of the estate.

The federal inheritance tax took $24,635,093 from the estate. Other taxes were: state inheritance $6,686,117, plus a $100,000 interest adjustment; federal income tax, $3,574,590, and inheritance taxes on properties in Florida and Maine, $12,047.

Suicide Is Added To Skeleton Mystery In Baltimore House

BALTIMORE — (AP) — A suicide has been added to the mystery of the three skeletons uncovered in an old Baltimore row house.

The skeleton remains of three babies were found in a boarded-up fireplace Wednesday night. Two were wrapped in newspapers dated 1921 and 1923.

Police, checking to see who lived in the house then, found 43-year-old Charles Schaub. He lived there from 1912 until May of last year.

Schaub told police his step-mother, Anna, killed herself by gas in 1923. She had tried it before, he said, and frequently complained of being in poor health.

The skeletons were turned over to state medical examiners who are trying to determine what caused the death of the infants and how old they were.

Singing Mouse Makes Debut Over Radio On Battle Creek Station

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., (AP) — Geraldine made a debut on a nationwide hookup Thursday night, and in the words of a sponsor "sang beautifully, very clearly—just like a canary."

Geraldine is Battle Creek's singing mouse. The sponsor is news editor Louis Sinclair of the Enquirer News here.

"It didn't get me fright at all and stood up very well," said the praising sponsor, a one-time critic.

Geraldine — itself, herself or himself—was back home today, singing as he (for reference purposes) cavorted on a merry-go-round in his gilded cage.

It hasn't been determined yet whether Geraldine is boy or girl, house mouse, field mouse, or something special.

Geraldine is the property of the Lawrence Miller family of near-by Burlington, which he used to awaken with his between-the-walls contralto concerts. A bit of cheese and a box trap got him.

After the catch, the Millers bundled the mouse up and brought him to the Enquirer & News. Skeptical reporters and editors crowded around. Then Geraldine let loose.

There was a scramble then to get Art Middleton, newscaster on the Enquirer & News radio station WELL. Shortly thereafter Geraldine was making a radio debut,

Negligence Charged In Sanatorium Fire Where 10 Perished

NORRISTOWN, Pa., (AP) — A coroner's jury has found that "negligence" existed at the Belle Vista sanatorium where a fire killed 10 patients March 29.

The six-man jury reached its verdict after hearing these disclosures:

Four of the 10 who died were strapped to beds, powerless to save themselves. Fifteen of the 82 patients who survived also were strapped to beds.

Doctors signed "restraint" orders giving a nurse authority to decide when some patients were to be tied down.

A previous convicted firebug, who set the blaze, had keys to the rooms and a closet, handled matches and was allowed to go home weekends.

It took firemen 20 to 25 minutes to chop their way through mesh-barred windows to reach patients trapped in four small cubicles.

Orchid Raiser Discovers It's Tough Trying To Outsmart A Finicky Flower

By NEA Service
Bergenfield, N. J. —(NEA)—Harold Patterson spends his life trying to outsmart a flower.
Patterson is an orchid grower. His sprawling "Orchidhaven" here houses 500,000 hybrid orchid plants, being pampered in several acres of hothouses.
"We're constantly trying to produce bigger, sturdier and more beautiful orchids," says Patterson. "To do that, you've got to be smarter than an orchid."

It takes from seven to 10 years, plus patience and loving care, to produce an orchid from seed. Every step in the lengthy process must be watched closely.

The first step is to remove the seed from the ripened pod. The second it bursts open. This sounds easy. But the seeds are so microscopic that a teaspoon will hold 1,000,000 of them. They are stored at 50 degrees Fahrenheit—no more, no less—until time for planting.

At planting time, they are first immersed delicately in a "food solution" of calcium nitrate, ammonium sulphate, iron phosphate, potassium phosphate, Epsom salts, and distilled water, plus agar, a nutritive gelatin substance which causes the solution to solidify.

Then the delicate seeds must be sterilized. They are next transferred to a flask in which they grow for one year, in an 80 degree temperature.

"When they are about a year old, the seedlings are planted in rows in soft, yellow peat, in a three-inch community pot," Patterson says.

Here they spend another year at 65 to 80 degree temperatures and are sprayed three times a day. The orchid's next home—again for a year—is a 1 1/2-inch individual pot, filled with osmunda fern, which is similar to its native tropical vegetation.

They spend another 10 to 12 months in a 2 1/2-inch pot, then a year in three-inch pots, where their roots begin to spill over and dangle in the air. After a year or so in four-inch pots, they are finally transplanted to their permanent five-inch pots.

"A healthy orchid plant will keep blooming annually for more years than there are in our life," Patterson said with a grin. "That's the satisfaction you have—knowing that you have created a thing of beauty that will outlive you."

In developing hybrid orchids, such as Patterson's new "Old Forster," the problem is to choose the right qualities in the parents, and know from experience what the combined qualities may be. For instance, two parents which bloom in September, may produce an offspring which blooms in March and April.

The biggest demand for orchids is at Easter, and a prompt bloomer is the orchid grower's delight. If a new hybrid is a "light lover" it is kept in the dark to delay its bloom until the right moment. The "dark lovers" are bathed in floodlights until the market is ready.

The first bloom is the end of the cycle for the new orchid plant. When it becomes a hardy plant, its back root bulb is removed to form another plant. The root division may be repeated indefinitely.

"If I live to be 300 years old, I might learn half there is to know about orchids," Patterson said.

Grand Junction, Colorado, gets its name from the fact the Colorado and the Gunnison rivers come together nearby.

HAROLD PATTERSON AND ORCHID: The satisfaction is in creating a thing of beauty that outlives you.

Detroit Girl Flier Cheats Death, Awaits New Foot To Be Bride

DETROIT—(AP)—One of these days, Gloria Lynch, petite aviatrix, will walk slowly up a church aisle to become the bride of Elmer V. Fuston, jr.

She'll do it proudly, too, as befits a plucky young woman who has cheated death and an injury that might have permanently maimed a lesser spirit.

You see, one of Gloria's feet had to be amputated after she crashed during an airshow last August in Flint. Most of the bones in her body were broken. For days, doctors despaired of her life.

But with the encouragement of hundreds of friends who read about her fight and who even formed a fund to help out with her medical care, she pulled through.

Then there were more long months in a wheelchair. One day, Fuston carried her out for a ride. He asked her a question—the question. But he didn't get the answer he wanted. He kept asking.

The 25-year-old brunette finally said yes, but attached this provision: No marriage until she could walk up the aisle under her own power. Right now, she's undergoing a long series of fittings for an artificial foot. Then, she'll have to learn to walk.

Fuston doesn't mind too much. He says he can wait.

Rookie Cop Learns Fast In Detroit

DETROIT—(AP)—Rookie Policeman Jerry Tankersley learns fast. Sgt. Norman Werner of the Detroit force decided.

Werner, a nine-year cop, was showing young Tankersley how to patrol a midtown precinct when they saw four men lifting a safe into a car. One fired at the officers and all four fled.

Werner took out after one man but lost him. Tankersley ran after another and came back with him in tow.

"Is that the way to do it?" he asked his red-faced superior.

Women Get Most Out Of Illness; Keep Prettied Up

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK—(AP)—What convinced me that women are superior to men is their ability to enjoy a brief illness.

For years I have known that women, pound for pound, are better looking than men, wiser, more durable of purpose, and less susceptible to bankruptcy.

But it is their resilience of spirit under the test of illness that shows how much better adjusted they are to life, how much more adaptable to strain, than the paltry male.

The truth of this distinction between the sexes dawned upon me during the last two days. I spent them in bed, racked by assorted chills and fevers incidental to the departure of winter and the arrival of spring.

This has always been my standard way of dealing with illness—to check my insurance, pull down the shades, and lie in bed groaning and letting my beard grow. When the whiskers start scratching and the neighbors begin complaining about my caterwauling, I am usually strong enough to get up and go back to work.

But I found I could no longer groan in my own home. Strange noises disturb the maid, and it was her day to come.

"Here, Rover, quit acting like a dumb animal," said my wife, Frances, sticking a thermometer into my mouth.

It was useless for me to protest that I didn't want any food, medicine, sympathy or marigolds in my diet of despair. You can't cheat a good wife out of the fun of nursing her husband. It is the only time she has him completely under her will.

"The trouble with you men," said Frances, plumping up the pillow, "is that you don't get any rest or pleasure out of being sick."

And that is true. Our conscience won't let us.

But women are too sensible to let a small illness annoy them. They make a game of it, so far as they can. They keep their faces prettied up; they wear a fancy bed jacket; they love flowers and more flowers in the room; they tease their innards with fine soups and salads; they keep the radio going and the telephone handy. And they don't take the same old bedpan-white pills I always get. They relish all kinds of rainbow-colored medicines.

When they do rise at last, they don't feel shaky-legged or guilty or mad at their own weakness. They are refreshed and renewed ready to get a new hair-do or go to work.

Well, this time I did everything Frances said. In fact, I relaxed so much that finally she said suspiciously, "I do believe you are enjoying yourself. It's time you got up and started earning me a living again."

And, to tell the truth, the thought was revolting. I'd have preferred to stay in bed, admiring my toes and being waited on—even at the price of two throat swabs a day.

There's the rub. A woman recovers from a mild illness when she gets bored and decides she'd rather be up and doing some-

Pregnant Women In Mississippi Are Dirt-Eaters

NEW ORLEANS, La.—(AP)—A doctor and a nutritionist have reported that dirt eating by pregnant women in rural Mississippi is quite common.

Dr. James Ferguson of New Orleans and Nutritionist Alice Glenn Keaton of Jackson, Miss., said the practice is so widespread and "so little known that it merits a report."

Besides dirt, the two wrote in the New Orleans medical and surgical journal, some of the women have an unaccountable craving for plain laundry starch.

All of those who admitted dirt and starch eating, the specialists observed, "were from an economically and medically underprivileged group and 92 per cent were Negroes."

Just why the women eat the dirt and starch, said the medical team, is unknown.

Their article, based on a 1948 dietary study of 361 pregnant women in 11 rural counties, said "25 per cent included clay in the diet and 39 per cent starch."

Many of the women interviewed, the two concluded, were reluctant to admit the practice and "hence we feel that the true incidence is much higher."

The interviews contained many direct quotes from the women on why they followed the dietary practice. These included:

"I craves it."

"I know it is not good for me, but I likes the taste."

"I eat dirt just the same way you smoke a cigarette."

"When I get worried about my children I eat more dirt."

"It seems to settle my stomach."

"When I go up to Jasper county I get it, but can't find any good dirt here."

"This Biloxi dirt ain't no good, so I gets my sister in Birmingham to send it to me."

"Some people say it has a lot of germs in it so if it does I try to kill it and bake it in my oven."

"It sure is good."

"I never heard of a man eating dirt. They not got the same taste woman has. They not like a woman."

Clean-Up Plan Gains Impetus

Committee Formed For Arrangements

Impetus to the annual Clean-up—Paint-up campaign was given at the Monday morning Coffee Hour when a committee was formed to make arrangements for the event.

Myron "Mike" Goodman is serving as chairman and on the committee with him are Fred Siebert, City Manager H. J. Henrickson, John P. Vogt, Walter Tang, Albert Buckman and Harold Tang.

The clean-up campaign will be put on early in May and a meeting of the committee is to be held soon to outline plans for it.

Problems faced in handling a baseball club were discussed and a meeting is to be held in the near future for the purpose of forming a board of directors to handle the club's affairs and coffee hour members were urged to attend.

Attorney General Roth's recent ruling that plowing of private driveways by county road commission employees is illegal came in for some discussion and it was the consensus that this service is vital and that we should aid in a campaign designed to effect a change in Michigan law which would allow this service.

Creten's Team Smear Champs

Title Settled, Dinner Held Sunday Night

Alphonse Creten's team defeated Harvey Gardner's quartet, 53-48, in a playoff Sunday evening to win the championship in the current Holy Name society smear tournament.

The season had been divided into two halves and each team had won one half, necessitating the playoff. It was held Sunday evening in All Saint's parish hall preceding the annual banquet.

Creten's team won the first two games, 15-9 and 15-8, while Gardner's crew came back to win the next two 15-6 and 16-2 and went into the last game with a ten-point lead and what looked like the title.

However, Creten's team had other ideas and they held their opponents scoreless while counting 15 points to win the title and one year possession of a large trophy which has been obtained for the annual tourney. Each member of the winning quartet also received a smaller trophy, possession of which is permanent.

With Creten on the championship team are Emil Rothschild, Albert Bratonia and Adam Sinclair. On the runner-up quartet are Gardner, Joe Creten, Frank Richel and George Minne.

A team captained by Francis Rabitoy won undisputed rights to the cellar spot and its members got big noses as rewards when it lost to a team led by Ed Laidlaw, 68-50.

The modern, non-poisonous match was invented by William A. Fairburn.

Joe Louis and John Stock.

Tells Of Work On City Newspapers

An interesting talk on his experiences while working on metropolitan newspapers, particularly the Chicago Tribune, was presented before the Gladstone Rotary club Monday noon by Charles Larson, sports editor of the Escanaba Daily Press.

Larson also told Rotarians that the Upper Peninsula is missing out on the opportunity to obtain valuable publicity in metropolitan and some lower peninsula papers by not forwarding stories and photographs to various publications. He pointed to the wealth of publicity Florida receives through a well-planned program.

Ed Jackson Is New Rote Head Elected At Monday Noon Meeting

Ed V. Jackson was elected president of the Manistique Rotary club at an election held at its regular meeting Monday noon. He succeeds P. P. Stanness who has held that office for the past year. He and the other elected officers will assume their duties at the beginning of the club's fiscal year, the first week in July.

Other officers named were: William S. Cook, vice president; L. Elwood Taylor, secretary; Keith Bundy, treasurer; James McLaughlin and Peter Babladelis, directors.

On the Rotary program for the day were members of the high school debate team, Margo Vieregger, Lael Richards, Joan Sheahan and Dan Van Eyck; and their coach, Marvin Fredericksen. The young people, who won first place for Manistique in the recent Upper Peninsula debate tournament at Marquette, discussed briefly their individual versions of the debate question, "Resolved that the President of the United States Should be Elected by a Direct Vote of the People." Coach Fredericksen expressed satisfaction and pride over the achievement of these young people.

It was also announced, incidentally, that Dan and Joan, who are seniors, will have an opportunity to participate in a statewide contest among high school seniors which will be held at Ann Arbor the second week in May. Generous scholarships are among the prizes offered winners.

Alma College Head To Visit City Friday

Dr. Dale Welch, president of Alma College, will be the speaker at a special meeting of the Presbyterian congregation on Friday night, April 21st at 8:00 p.m. The president of Alma comes not as a stranger. He has addressed the graduating class of '49 in Manistique, and also spoken to the members of the Presbyterian church once before. Dr. Welch, a gifted speaker, as well as a capable and efficient administrator, will be itinerating the Upper Peninsula Presbyterian Churches in an endeavor to acquaint these congregations with the splendid work being done in education at Alma.

Arthur Hall, superintendent of schools, has arranged for Dr. Welch to address the high school students on the afternoon of the 21st. Following his speech in the evening the elders of the church of the Redeemer will serve a luncheon. The public is invited to attend this meeting.

Reid Announces Two Important Farm Meetings

Two important farm meetings, scheduled for the near future, are announced by Clayton Reid, county agricultural agent.

Ed Andrews and Ray Jones, specialists from the Michigan State College will discuss insects and plant disease control at a meeting at the Cooks School Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. New insecticides and fungicides for potatoes will be at the top of the list for discussion. However, potato diseases, small grain diseases, grass hoppers, army worms, plant lice, white grubs, house flies etc., will also get their share of attention.

James Cox, landscape specialist, will address a meeting at the Manistique township hall on the afternoon of Tuesday, April 25, at 2:00 o'clock. He will tell how to use native trees in landscaping home grounds.

Walter Burns Elected County Board Chairman

Walter Burns, until recently mayor of Manistique is the new chairman of the Schoolcraft county board of supervisors.

His election to that position was the first order of business after the county board was called to order by the retiring chairman, Floyd Sample, Monday morning.

Two names were placed in nomination—that of William Davidson, Doyle township supervisor, and Burns. The ballots showed that six votes were cast for Davidson and seven for Burns.

As a result of the recent municipal election in Manistique, there was a change of three members in the board's personnel. A. W. Heitman and Dr. James Fyvie replacing William Sellman and William Berger, as aldermen; and W. G. Stephens replacing John Nessman, as assessor, making them eligible for the positions.

A checkup of the records reveals that it has been 18 years since a resident of Manistique has been elected to serve as chairman of the board. J. Wesley Gilligan was elected chairman in 1932. Prior to that, for many years, the late William L. Middlebrook, of this city presided.

Names Committees

With the formality of the election and the reading of minutes of recent meetings, the board adjourned until afternoon when the first order of business was the announcement of committee appointments. They are:

CARD OF THANKS

Ruth Heggblom, James Ross, Are Wed In Detroit

At a ceremony in Immanuel Evangelical Lutheran church in Detroit, April 10, Miss Ruth Arlene Heggblom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. U. S. A. Heggblom, of 16183 Roselawn, Detroit, became the bride of James Gordon Ross, son of the James Rosses of Detroit.

The Heggbloms are former residents of Manistique and are widely known in Upper Michigan.

The Rev. Reuben E. Norling officiated at the evening service. Bouquets of white lilies and gladioli and white candelabra graced the church altars for the ceremony, at which John Ringstad of Chicago, who sings with the Wayne King group on its national broadcast, sang "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Miss Betty Gibbs of St. Clair Shores was maid of honor and Mrs. Frank Dyson and Mrs. James E. Jones of Detroit were bridesmaids. Alexander P. Ross, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Charles Stratton, Ronald Barnes, Kirby Robinson and Clarence Keaba of Detroit.

Joanne Christine Heggblom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nestor Heggblom of Detroit was junior bridesmaid.

Gown Of White Lace

The bride was attired in a ball-length gown of white lace, fashioned with a portrait neckline, long sleeves and full skirt. The train of her gown was of lace and net and her fingertip veil extended from a satin braided halo. She carried a bridal bouquet of white carnations centered with a purple orchid.

The maid of honor wore a ballerina length gown of aqua sheer and her floral headpiece matched her yellow carnations. The bridesmaids wore yellow sheer and blue hyacinths were interspersed with carnations in their bouquets. The junior bridesmaid's costume was a replica of the maid of honor's.

A floor length gown of aqua chiffon with a matching tulle headpiece and an orchid corsage formed the ensemble of the bride's mother. Mrs. Ross wore a beige crepe with a tulle headpiece and an orchid corsage.

The reception for 350 guests was held in the church parlors. Piano selections were played during the reception by Carleton Ryding of Detroit.

Honeydew in New York

The newlyweds left by plane for New York City. They will live in Detroit at 4053 Clements avenue. The bride is a graduate of Stephens college, Columbia, Mo., and now is attending Wayne university. She is a member of Zeta Phi Delta and Alpha Epsilon Rho. Mr. Ross is a student of engineering at the Detroit Institute of Technology.

Manistique guests at the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. Vern Ekstrom, Mr. and Mrs. Gus Nye, Mrs. Anna Soderbeck, Miss Esther Soderbeck and John Nessman, Paul E. Nessman of Chicago also attended the ceremony.

Old Sol is not entirely to blame for last summer's hot weather. The most intense rays of the year were in April, according to a "solar radiation recorder." Last year's unusual heat was caused by unusual atmospheric pressure conditions that prevented the moving in of cold air masses from the north.

Spilling The Dope

By Charlie Larson

What, we are asked, do we think of the major league races starting today?

Nothing. Not a thing. Chances are we don't know any more about it than you do. Even less, perhaps.

For the record, we're a Tiger fan. No particular reason. We don't know Red Rolfe (although we have something in common in the color of our hair). Nor any of the Tiger players.

In fact, players on some other team—say the Boston Red Sox or the Cleveland Indians—may be "better Joes" than the Tigers. We dunno.

That's why it seems silly to favor one team or the other.

But that's the way it's done. So, if we have to "take" some team, it'll be the Tigers. They're from Michigan and their manager has the same color hair as we. There are two good reasons!

And, as long as we're casting our lot with the Bengals, we wish we could be optimistic about their chances.

But our optimism is tinged with a lot of "ifs."

Let's take a frinstance.

Frinstance, their catching leaves something to be desired, both defensively and in hitting.

There is a big IF in Hal Newhouse. Potentially, as we look at it from here, the Tigers' pitching staff is one of the strongest in the leagues.

BUT, Newhouse is a definite IF. And there isn't much reserve depth.

That leaves two "ifs" down the middle, where a team theoretically has to be strong to win.

Then there's another uncertain spot down the center. You can't exactly say that Johnny Lipon is a ball of fire at short.

That leaves you with three possible weak spots in the places where a team should be strong.

Kell is tops in the majors at third. Jerry Priddy certainly is an improvement at second. Dick Kryhoski still must prove himself at first but doesn't have to show much to be an improvement over last year's first basing at Detroit.

Wertz, Groth, Mullin, Evers and Keller give the Tigers plenty of stuff in the outfield.

IF "our" pitching and catching hold up, IF Kryhoski comes through and IF "we" don't have too many injuries, "we'll" make things interesting this year.

As an old MSC professor friend of ours used to say: "That's sufficiently vague so no one can pin anything on you!"

Racers Don't Scare Easily

Duke Nalon Ignores 1949 Near Death

INDIANAPOLIS — (P) — Race drivers don't scare easily.

Last Memorial day, just before the start of the annual 500-mile auto race, Duke Nalon stepped to the microphone of the Indianapolis motor speedway public address system.

"May God be with us all," the Sherman Oaks, Calif., driver prayed.

Then he slid behind the wheel of a 550-horsepower Novi special, mate to the car in which veteran racer Ralph Hepburn was killed in 1948.

Four times around the two and one-half mile track and Nalon had lapped the slowest of the 33 starters. At 50 miles he had smashed every record in the books with the supercharged V-8 monster.

At 55 miles, an axle broke. The cream-colored, $75,000 machine crashed on the northeast turn in a wreck so spectacular it was the pivotal scene in the movie, "The Big Wheel."

Blazing gasoline whipped over the car and spread the width of the track. From the midfield it seemed impossible Nalon could get out—but he did.

Much Skin Grafting

He spent months having skin grafted on his hands and receiving other repairs. Meanwhile, his mate on the Novi team, veteran Rex Mays, was killed in a crash at Del Mar, Calif.

So Nalon, terror of the dirt tracks before the war in his little "poison Lil" was entered today for another Memorial day run in his rebuilt Novi.

Chet Miller of Glendale, Calif., was named to pilot the Mays car which he had driven for engine tune-ups. If he's in the lineup on May 30, it will be his 15th start today, with possibility one or two entries posted before the midnight May 15 deadline might yet be received. Bill Holland of Reading, Pa., the 1949 winner, was entered again in a Blue Crown special.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK—(P)—All baseball fans know that before the season starts, sports writers have to pick the pennant winners—willingly or otherwise. They also know that pride goeth before a fall and a little knowledge is a dangerous thing. So, without further ado, we give you the Red Sox and Dodgers for 1950. We were lucky enough to hit the winners last year. The Sox couldn't come much closer than they have the past two seasons. And this time we figure the Yanks have reached the stage where a Branch Rickey would be selling off stars before they obviously lose value. Tommy Henrich's recent aches and pains are evidence. . . . Maybe Boston is at the same stage, but we figure Joe McCarthy's lads will have one last shot and will succeed. . . . The Bums should be better than last year; the Cards are due to fade with increasing age and the rebuilt Braves haven't entirely escaped from last season's troubles. . . . So who else can you pick but Brooklyn?

All Was Con-Fuchs-ion
Jim Fuchs, Yale's world-record shot putter, was visiting Pelham, N. Y., the other day when he noticed a couple of kids practicing his favorite event on the high school field. . . . Jim quietly strolled over and began to roll the iron ball back to them after each toss. . . . Then, unable to resist, Fuchs asked the coach if he could have a try. . . . "You'd better be careful," one of the high-schoolers put in. "You can hurt your arm this way." . . . Jim just picked up the 12-pound shot and heaved it about 65 feet, then strolled away while the coach and the kids almost fainted.

Monday Matinee

Charles J. Harley of Chicago, nephew of Ohio State's immortal Chis, is a halfback candidate on the Buckeye football squad. . . . If you like mysteries with your derby collections, Lip-Tattoo numbers are Bed O'Roses, C-4005; Middleground, C-3839; Oil Capitol, C-2557; Hill Prince, C-4915; and Your Host, C-4140. . . . Try them on your telephone dial sometime and see if you get a winner. . . . McMurray college football followers figure 215-pound Floyd Sampson is as good a fullback as Brad Rowland is a halfback. That's the highest possible praise. . . . Michigan State came up with a new, and less bulky, set of blocking dummies for spring football practice. . . . Coach Biggie Munn took one look and yelled: "Get out there and dummy the heavy ones. We play Minnesota next fall."

260,000 To See 8 Major League Openers Today

NEW YORK—(P)—Ted ($125,000) Williams and Joe ($100,000) DiMaggio start earning those bulging salaries today as the big league season opens on eight fronts.

Pay starts for 480 major leaguers with the first pitch of baseball's jubilee year. An opening day turnout of about 260,000 fans will help the bosses foot the bill.

The schedule makers come up with a tasty tidbit in rematches of the New York Yankee-Boston Red Sox and Brooklyn Dodger-Philadelphia Phillies games that decided the 1949 pennant races on the final day.

With DiMaggio in the opening lineup for the sixth time in 12 active years (not counting three in the army), the world champion Yanks visit Fenway park for the first of four with the Red Sox. The Yanks didn't beat off the Boston challenge until the last day in '49. Most of the experts and oddsmakers pick the Sox to win it all this time.

Brooklyn, favored to repeat in the National, also opens on the road at Shibe park where the Phillies took them to extra innings last October before yielding the clincher.

Here's how they paid up for opening day:
American League:
New York at Boston, 32,000

Detroit at Cleveland, 63,000
St. Louis at Chicago, 18,000
Philadelphia at Washington, 30,000
National League:
Brooklyn at Philadelphia, 32,000
Boston at New York, 30,000
Chicago at Cincinnati, 23,000
Pittsburgh at St. Louis (night), 30,000.

The night opener at St. Louis is something new, a trend of things to come when all major league weekday games will be played under the lights. Many more night games will follow—409 during the 24-week season.

*Tops in national interest on the opening program is the Yank-

Red Sox clash at Fenway where Boston wound up its home season last Fall with 21 straight victories.

Manager Joe McCarthy has his southpaw ace, Mel Parnell (25-7), ready to get the Sox off on the right foot. The last two years Boston's hopes were dimmed by shoddy starts.

For the Yanks, Casey Stengel is pitching Allie Reynolds (17-6), sturdy right-handed hero of the world series. Casey said Tommy Henrich, sore knee and all, would open at first base.

Connie Mack's Philadelphia Athletics, starting their 50th year under the 87-year-old manager, have pitching miseries. Dick Fowler and Joe Coleman have arm troubles so Mack opens at Washington with 23-year-old Carl Scheib, (9-12).

After President Harry Truman throws out the first ball at Griffith stadium, Rae Scarborough (13-11) takes up the burden for Washington. Both the Red Sox and Yanks are casting covetous glances at Scarborough, top man of new manager Bucky Harris' staff.

There is great interest in the Polo grounds meeting of the Boston Braves and New York Giants, principals in the big winter player deal.

Sid Gordon, Willard Marshall and Buddy Kerr, all ex-Giants, will be playing with another major league team for the first time. They give the Braves more punch but the Giants expect Alvin Dark and Eddie Stanky, ex-Braves, to patch up their infield. Now we'll see who got stung.

An average rookie crop answers the bell. Sam Jethroe of the Phils, Bob Morgan of the Dodgers, Steve Bilko of the Cards and Carmen Mauro of the Cubs are some of the new faces in the National. In the American there are Washington's Irv Noren, Cleveland's Luke Easter, Chicago's Chico Carrasquel and an entire new St. Louis Browns infield.

Houtteman Or Hutchinson May Open Against Indians

CLEVELAND—(P)—The chips came down today for the Detroit Tigers—the American League's biggest question marks.

The alert, practice-sharp Bengals, boasting a 21-10 exhibition record, open the pennant drive here against the Cleveland Indians.

A crowd estimated at 60,000, largest in any major league park, will jam Municipal stadium, despite predictions of showery weather.

TO AIR GAMES

DETROIT—(P)—Harry Hellmann's play-by-play accounts of the Detroit Tigers' baseball games this season will be fed to Michigan fans through a network of 33 radio stations and one television outlet. The outlets include WDBC at Escanaba.

There was a 50-50 chance that rain might come about game time of 3 p. m. (EST).

If the forecast of 60 degree temperatures is good, pitcher Freddie Hutchinson will start for the Detroiters.

If it's colder, Manager Red Rolfe says he'll open with young Art Houtteman. Bob Lemon will start for Cleveland.

The rejuvenated Tigers, fourth place holders in the 1949 pennant race, will be out to make their five-year cycle charm work again.

They won championships in 1935, 1940 and 1945. And now, 1950? That's dependent on some ifs, naturally.

Biggest "if" of all is: Can Hal Newhouse, fanciest left-hander in the majors, overcome a sore shoulder that has bothered him?

And if so, can he rejoin the circle of 20-game winners that he vacated last year for the first time in five seasons?

Plenty Of Ifs
If Newhouse can do that, critics concede the Tigers a good chance—if the regular pitching staff that includes Hutchinson, Houtteman, Virgil Trucks and Ted Gray also comes through.

And if Rolfe can find an effective relief hurler among Paul Calvert, Saul Rogovin, Diz Trout, Marv Grissom or Hal White.

At bat, too, the Detroiters have some ifs.

Will Dick Kryhoski, newcomer from the New York Yankees, find his batting eye against left-handed pitchers? And can he beat out Don Kolloway for the first base job?

Will Rolfe get a hard hitting catcher from among Aaron Robinson, Bob Swift, Joe Ginsberg and Frank House? And could House, the $75,000 bonus beauty, by any chance develop as a regular?

Will Johnny Groth, 1949's prize

rookie, resume the hitting spree that for a while had him over the 400 mark?

Can Johnny Lipon, a good shortstop, show more power at the plate?

Will Hoot Evers, now sidelined with a foot injury, keep up the torrid slugging tempo he maintained in exhibition play?

Will the addition of second-baseman Jerry Priddy, bought from St. Louis for $100,000, provide the spark to keep the infield aflame?

And will such reliables as George Kell, American League batting champion, and Vic Wertz come up to or surpass their 1949 marks?

Those are the ifs. And if they move over into certainties, Detroit should see a really great club.

Probable starting lineups:

Vernon 1b	Kell 3b

"Lefty" Truman Hurls One Today Deserts "Ump" Role For Opener

WASHINGTON, — (P)—Baseball's best known part-time pitcher, who used to be an umpire, officially opens the 1950 major league season today.

It's the fifth appearance for President Harry Truman—the seventh chief executive to perform opening honors.

Invited to sit in the presidential box with the president, Mrs. Truman and daughter, Margaret, were some old family friends from Kansas City, Mo.

The opening game, between the Washington Senators and the Philadelphia Athletics, also cut into congressional activities. Capitol Hill leaders doubted they would have enough lawmakers on hand to do much business.

President Clark Griffith of the Washington club said not many presidents who have been tossing out the first ball ever since the days of William Howard Taft were what you might call pitchers.

"But that doesn't go for President Truman," he said.

Looking at a picture of the 1949 opener on his wall, Griffith said:

"For an umpire that fellow is a pretty good pitcher. Mr. Truman, you know, was an umpire in Missouri. He told me the kids in his hometown wouldn't let him play with the club because he wore glasses. . . . So he went behind the plate."

What Managers Say

NEW YORK—(P)—Here are comments of some major league managers:

American League
Casey Stengel, New York Yankees—"My club will be among the first three in the league. Our pitchers look good and DiMaggio looks like he's going to have one of his best years. The two clubs we have to worry about most are Boston and Detroit."

Joe McCarthy, Boston Red Sox—"All we need to get rolling is a flying start and this year the schedule favors us because we will be at home for a considerable stay at the outset. We need consistent pitching and we have two trumps in Mel Parnell and Ellis Kinder."

Bucky Harris, Washington Senators—"I'd say it would be Boston, New York, Cleveland, and Detroit in that order. All the other clubs will be scrambling for fifth place and we'll be among 'em."

Jack Onslow, Chicago White Sox—"I'll have to stick with the Red Sox who have the best club, player by player. Second should be the Yankees. Detroit has a good chance to step in and grab everything—a good dark horse."

Lou Boudreau, Cleveland Indians—"We are shooting for the top and will have to beat out Boston or New York."

Red Rolfe, Detroit Tigers—"The Red Sox and Yankees are the clubs to beat. I just don't know what we're going to do. We have some 'ifs'—especially relief pitching and first base."

National League
Eddie Dyer, St. Louis Cards—"We are not conceding anything to anybody. I think we can win if our top men perform as they have in season past. Brooklyn is the club to beat."

Burt Shotton, Brooklyn Dodgers—"We'll win it again because we have the best team in the league. Despite a few 'ifs', our pitching staff is good enough. Boston doesn't have enough, despite its trade with New York. Despite Musil, Slaughter and Pollet, the Cardinals lack something."

Wings Eager To Wind Up Cup Series

DETROIT, — (P)—Eager to wind it up fast, the Detroit Red Wings take another whack at the New York Rangers here tonight in the Stanley cup championship series.

Michigan Bell Employee List Up 250 Percent

Operators Jump From
2,700 To 7,200

DETROIT—(AP)—Michigan Bell Telephone company today reported a 250 per cent increase in the number of its employees since 1940.

The company, reporting on wage increases in 1949-50, said that the number of its operators alone had jumped from 2,700 to 7,200.

It termed the increase "particularly significant" in view of claims that technological advances lead to unemployment.

Such claims had been advanced recently by the CIO-Communications Workers of America, Michigan Bell said.

Herbert F. Lance, Bell vice-president, said that the increase had been made despite such equipment advances as the new operator toll dialing.

"Improvements in telephone equipment," he said, "not only have permitted the company to handle the natural growth of business but have stimulated that growth by providing better and faster service."

Lance, in another indirect slap at recent union demands for wage increases, also said that Michigan Bell granted 42,000 individual pay raises last year.

This, he said, was done "although there was no change in basic wage rates" under contracts with unions representing most of its employees.

The increases were granted under the company's wage and salary progression policy. It calls for pay raises at regular intervals as employees advance in service with the company.

BIRINI A BUST? — Paris designer Andre Ledoux says his "body moulder" bathing suit, above, does much more for the figure than the popular bikini model (inset). Ledoux's "moulder" is made of a new pushing, pulling, non-rubberized fabric. Actually, experienced observers point out, there is a very scant difference between the two suits.

Eben Seniors Present Play Friday Evening

CHATHAM — "Almost Summer," a fresh, gay three-act comedy by Christopher Sergel will be presented at the Eben Hall by the seniors of Eben High School on Friday, April 21, at 8 p. m.

This light comedy is typical of the young set and it's surrounding home life. Recordings will be played during intermissions.

The cast is headed by Harold Kallio who characterizes Paul, a boy of eighteen, over-burdened with the fear of not graduating high enough in his class for entrance to the university. Besides that worry, he is in love with Jane, a lovely, high-spirited, and popular classmate who is portrayed by Ruth Ylitalo. Jack, a real flirt and lady's man, Gordon Christofferson, is in love with Paul's sister, Mary, represented by Marilyn Lake, and he gets in lots of hot water, too. The part of Mother or Mrs. Jones is acted by Arlene Koski. The dignified, "when I was young" Mr. Jones is done by Harry Lines. Junior, Bruce Whitmarsh, claiming to be a woman hater is full of mischief but he does have a bit of sympathy for his brother Paul's plight. Mr. Smudgely who is the school principal is represented by Donald Haapola and his is the voice of authority. Lilah Johnson, Shirley Leppanen, a hot temper, petite charmer has her cap set for "the man", Anna, the maid, is played by Lois Ann Pittsley.

Production Assistants

Assistants in the production of the play are as follows:

Properties: Eugene Norberg and Jack Treford

Make-up: Bernice Leppanen

Publicity: Sarah Parkkila and Cecilia Zeno

Ushering: Sylvia Niemi and Elvira Jalonen

The cast is under the direction of Pat Lelvis, student director and Miss Martha Van Straten, director.

Candy and pop will be served during intermissions.

The nation's defenses today are far better than a year ago and getting better all the time.—Defense Secretary Louis Johnson.

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

As we get older, stress and strain, over-exertion, excessive smoking or exposure to cold sometimes slows down kidney function. This may lead many folks to complain of nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness. Getting up nights or frequent passages may result from minor bladder irritations due to cold, dampness or dietary indiscretions.

If your discomforts are due to these causes, don't wait. Try Doan's Pills, a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. While these symptoms may often otherwise occur, it's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

See Altitude Ills Much Exaggerated

DENVER—(AP)—He probably is in for some arguments, but Dr. Robert B. Patterson of Loveland, Colo., thinks the harmful physical effects of high altitudes are greatly exaggerated—at least for the kind of altitudes Colorado has. Writing in the Rocky Mountain Medical Journal, Dr. Patterson listed mineral oil, sunburn lotion and hard candy as the only medicines a normal flatlander needs to offset symptoms of the altitude here.

The mineral oil should be used to lubricate dried nasal passages, lotion to guard against sunburn which comes with deceptive swiftness in the rarefied air, and the hard candy to prevent throat dryness. But he had a word of warning for those not in the best of health. They should beware of reacting to the bracing mountain air by indulging in excessive exercise.
